Poland Refuses To Obey League of Nations Rule About Minority Peoples

Polish Foreign Minister Told Geneva Assembly Today That All Minorities Must Be Protected By All States.

CONSTERNATION

Geneva, Sept. 13 (AP)—Poland set off a political explosion in the League of Nations assembly today by announcing that, beginning at once, it will not abide by the general treaty for the protection of minority peoples.

Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, told the assembly that until all states protect the rights of minorities Poland would refuse any control by an international organism of its treatment of minority groups.

The Polish stand was regarded a severe blow to the League of Nations. One of its cardinal objects has been to win adequate protection for minority groups in all nations.

Beck's announcement caused consternation at a moment when the problem of Russia's adhesion to the league was reported to be more or less dormant and there were pessimistic rumors that Moscow might abandon its negotiations and decide after all not to apply for admission.

Poland requested that the international conference make the minority obligations general instead of confining them in treaty form to some of the states. Poland wants all the great powers, including Russia, to subscribe to these obligations.

The Polish foreign minister admitted in his address that there were few chances that this proposal would succeed and that therefore Poland was driven to her decision to refuse any interferences on her method of handling the minorities. Beck alleged that the application of the treaties was of no benefit to the minorities.

While refusing to submit to the League of Nations supervision, Beck gave his pledge to protect the foreign peoples in Poland but "under the fundamental laws of Poland, which gives equality of treatment to minorities, to race, to language, and to religion."

Poland's bombshell shocked both the French and the British who deemed the denunciation a dangerous blow to the sanctity of the treaties and also as an encouragement to the spirit of revision of treaties manifest especially by Germany and Hungary.

It was regarded as possible that the League Council would examine the situation created by Poland's initiative.

A Polish spokesman informed the Associated Press that the denunciation did not apply to the Polish-German minorities treaty which is a separate and bilateral instrument.

The executive committee of the Jewish delegates asked the league to grant protection to the Jewish minorities in the Saar region where next January the populace will vote on whether they will remain under the jurisdiction of the League of Nations, revert to Germany, or become French territory.

22 CHILDREN RECEIVE ANTI-PARALYSIS SERUM

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 (AP).—Twenty-two children have received three injections of the serum Dr. John A. Kolmer believes will immunize them against infantile paralysis and a week hence he expects to have proof that it is effective.

He gave the third injection yesterday and said no ill effects were apparent in any of the subjects, which include his own two sons.

Next week he plans to take samples of the blood of each child, mix it with active virus of the disease, and inject the combined mixture into the brain of a monkey. If the animal does not contract infantile paralysis, Dr. Kolmer says it will indicate his vaccine has killed the active virus in the child's blood.

LONDON BLACKMAILERS OBJECT OF POLICE DRIVE

London, Ont., Sept. 13 (AP).—About $25,000 was reported to have been extorted from half a dozen London business men as police today sought to smash an alleged blackmailing ring.

Many citizens viewed the revelation of blackmailing in the community as alarming evidence of growth of a type of crime from which the Dominion had regarded itself immune. Energetic police action was demanded.

Three persons, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor and Mrs. Mae Turnbull, are under arrest, held without bail. Arrangements were made not to disclose the names of complainants even at trials.

Freighter in Distress

Los Angeles, Sept. 13 (AP)—Bewildering reports the S. S. Hawaiian was in distress off the Mexican coast were followed with a message early today from the freighter. "Never mind now, going to nearest port." The message was relayed to the Coast Guard station here by the S. S. Santa Rosa.

Complete Plans For Celebration And Parade Here On September 20

Will Mark Completion of State Road From This City To New Paltz Village—Parade To Start at 5 o'clock With Line of March From Here To New Paltz—Exercises at Municipal Auditorium.

Plans were formulated for the big celebration and parade to be held on Thursday, September 20, to mark the completion of the new concrete state road between New Paltz and Kingston at a meeting of the celebration committee held in the office of Mayor C. J. Heiselman at the city hall on Wednesday afternoon. The big parade which forms on the Boulevard will move promptly at 5 o'clock that afternoon and proceed to New Paltz and then return over the same route and after a parade through the streets of the city the parade disbands at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, where exercises will be held at 8:30 o'clock.

State Highway Commissioner A. W. Brandt will be the guest of the celebration committee and will deliver the address of the evening in the Municipal Auditorium following the parade. Alderman Paul Zucca in charge of the entertainment program is arranging for several entertainment acts to be given from the stage of the auditorium and the local musicians' union will have an orchestra present and also furnish a band to take part in the parade.

The exercises in the Auditorium are open to the general public who are extended an invitation to attend.

The parade after returning from New Paltz will pass through Washington avenue to North Front street to Wall, to Main, to Clinton avenue, to Albany avenue, to Broadway to East Strand, to Hasbrouck avenue, to Murray street, to Delaware avenue, to Broadway to the Auditorium where it disbands.

A. L. Colligan, chairman of the float committee, submitted a partial report. The committee had only started work Wednesday and 54 decorated cars and floats had been secured for the parade. In Rosendale 11 floats and six trucks had been promised with more to follow.

It is also planned and hoped that residents of Kingston and those along the line of parade who have private cars should use them in the parade to make the event a rousing one.

Partial List of Floats.

Mr. Colligan filed the following partial list of decorated cars and floats that will be used in the parade, numbering 54 in all:

Rosendale Floats and Trucks

Mr. Huben filed the following partial list of floats and decorated trucks in Rosendale that will take part in the parade. The organizations of Rosendale township that will have floats in the parade are: Women's Club, Democratic Club, Rosendale Grange, Hiawatha Lodge, I. O. O. F., Rosendale Sportsmen's Association, Rosendale Fire Department, Ladies' Auxiliary, Rosendale board of education, Rosendale Township Association, DeWitt Lake and Williams Lake. The decorated trucks were entered by E. H. Demarest, Harry Snyder, Paul Schiller, Mollenhauer Brothers, Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation and Oliver Keator, Myers Bus, Tillson Parent-Teacher Association, L. R. Purdy, Dave Curl.

To Cut the Ribbon

Commissioner Brandt had expected to bring his young daughter with him to Kingston and have her cut the ribbon across the Boulevard, but he has written the mayor that while he will be present it will be impossible for his daughter to attend. Just who will cut the ribbon will be decided later by the committee.

Band on a Truck

The local Musicians' Union will furnish a band of 15 pieces which will be mounted on a truck and will furnish music for the parade. They will also furnish an orchestra to play in the auditorium at the close of the parade.

Parade Starts at 5

Five Men Arrested On Riot Charge Held For Grand Jury Here

Three of Them Are Former Employes of Fuller Plant Where Strike Is in Progress Are Accused of Beating Up Three Employes of Factory Who Were on Way to Work.

William Ertelt, 29, of 57 Newkirk avenue, George Sickler, 28, of 173 Lincoln street, and John Kruszenski, 21, of 82 Chambers street, former employes of the Fuller shirt factory, and Felix Klimex, 23, of Albany, and Samuel Swota, 23, of Watervliet, held under arrest by the police on charges of riot, all waived examination in police court this morning, and were held to await the action of the grand jury. Judge Culloton increased the amount of bail to $1,000 each in all five cases, and bail was furnished. The five men were represented by Attorney Andrew J. Cook.

The arrest of the five men was the outgrowth of an assault on three employes of the Fuller plant while on their way to the factory last Friday morning. The three employes are Elmer and Philip Carney of 79 Lincoln street and Ray Lammon of 31 Shufeldt street. According to their stories they were walking along Shufeldt street on the way to work and when near Foxhall avenue, a car suddenly pulled up to the curb and five or six men leaped out of the car and set upon the three men and beat them up.

Messrs. Ertelt, Sickler and Kruszenski were employed in the pressing department at the Fuller factory and were among those who went on strike on August 24, owing to a dispute over wages. The two other men are also pressers but employed in a shop in Albany. According to the police both Swota and Klimet were among visiting pickets who arrived in town and assisted on the picket line at the Fuller plant.

An adjournment of ten days each was granted by the court in the cases of Sickler and Kruszenski, who are charged with assault in the third degree, the arrest and charge growing out of the fracas last Friday morning.

Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver appeared for the police department this morning, while Attorney Andrew J. Cook appeared for the five pressers.

The court room was again jammed with an interested audience.

Roosevelt Offers Use Of Regular Army Men

Providence, R. I., Sept. 13 (AP).—President Roosevelt called Governor Green from Hyde Park today and after discussing the textile strike situation, the President told the governor he would communicate with Washington at once and have preparations made for sending federal forces into Rhode Island the moment formal request for aid is made by the state.

Reports that roving bands of rioters were converging on the state house caused the Providence and state police to throw a guard around the Capitol.

The only federal troops now in Rhode Island are at Fort Adams, Newport. They are members of the Headquarters Company, 10th Coast Artillery. The entire force is needed to patrol and maintain the military reservations at Newport. The 13th Infantry, usually stationed at Newport with a complement of 400 men, is on annual tour of duty at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.

In Newport Harbor is the battleship Arkansas, the cruiser Minneapolis and five destroyers. These vessels, it was said, could muster a shore force of 500 or 600 men.

HAVANA OFFICIAL SAYS HE COULD NAME SEVERAL

Havana, Sept. 13 (AP).—A high government official today said he believed he could "mention the names of several well known radicals in Cuba who, if given the 'third degree', could tell us something definite" about the Morro Castle disaster.

One of the members of the crew, this official said, "is a very dangerous character and is known to have made threats against American business concerns, especially steamship lines."

He asserted that satisfaction "and even glee" has been expressed in radical quarters over the burning of the Ward Line ship.

Prison Break Nipped

Boston, Sept. 13 (AP) — Warden James L. Hogsett of the Massachusetts State Prison said today that plans for a wholesale break of prisoners from the prison in Charlestown this afternoon had been discovered, that precautions had been rushed to prevent it, and believed ringleaders placed in solitary confinement.

Macy Strength Appears At Final Ebb As Result Of Thursday's Meeting

Old Guard Leaders Rode Rough Shod Over All Proposals of Chairman of Republican State Committee.

NO ROLL CALL VOTE

Rochester Selected as Convention City With Assemblage September 27 - 28.

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—The re-election of W. Kingsland Macy as chairman of the Republican state committee became only a remote possibility today following yesterday's demonstration of power of Old Guard leaders and committeemen at a meeting of the state committee.

Riding rough shod over whatever program Macy had in mind, the Old Guard leaders—functioning with precision on the floor—set up their own program, laid preparations to write their own platform and assured themselves of nominating their own candidates for governor and other state offices.

It was estimated—although Macy did not let matters come to a roll call vote—that the Old Guard held 225 votes of some 275 cast at the meeting.

When the meeting was adjourned, the following program had been adopted:

1—Rochester selected as the convention city.

2—Convention date set at September 27-28.

3—Representative Clarence E. Hancock of Syracuse selected as temporary convention chairman and keynoter.

4—A committee, exclusively Old Guard, selected to draw up a tentative platform.

5—A call ordered for the committee to meet immediately after the convention for organization purposes.

Macy, taking the rout of his forces without comment immediately after the meeting, later at night in an address at Riverhead, Suffolk county, predicted defeat for the party "if a reactionary ticket is nominated."

Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of Potsdam, Republican floor leader in the house, said after the meeting the "working forces of the party are welded together closer than ever before."

Hancock, it was understood, will sound an attack on the "New Deal" in his keynote speech.

Macy's future course was also made clear.

"In the interest of victory for the party and its best interests I propose to continue my fight for a liberal party and progressive candidates," he told young Republicans at Riverhead.

It became early apparent as yesterday's meeting got under way that the Macy opposition would not be denied. The state chairman made a concession to that fact at once by recognizing former United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, his supporter, to propose Rochester as the convention city. Macy had preferred White Plains. After a role by counties showed overwhelming preference for the northern city, the vote was made unanimous by acclamation.

From that point forward it was a rout for the Macy forces as the opposition proposed, and adopted, its program under the floor leadership of Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., chairman of an old guard "steering committee."

Meeting before the committee was called to order, old guard leaders let it be known they were "ready for a rough house" if the state chairman desired. Their plans were laid at the National Republican Club in the office of F. Trubee Davison, chairman of the recently formed campaign committee of 400.

No Plans Revealed

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Senate munitions committee today learned that General Douglas Mac Arthur, as acting secretary of war, had advised DuPont Company that nothing in its files referring to secret military plans of the United States was to be made public in connection with the Senate hearing.

Four Men Injured, Two Seriously, In Premature Explosion of Dynamite Here

Tamping The Dynamite Stick In Boulder When It Suddenly Exploded

Edward Buley May Lose Sight of Both Eyes; Angelo Culjak the Sight of One Eye; Both in Hospitals Here.

OFFICIAL PROBE

State Safety Inspector Busy Today Making an Investigation of the Explosion.

Four men were injured, two critically, at the municipal stone quarry in Wilbur about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when there occurred a premature explosion of a quarter stick of 40 per cent dynamite, that had been placed in a hole drilled in a large boulder on the edge of the quarry cliff. Two of the injured men are in the Benedictine Hospital and third in the the Kingston Hospital. The fourth man, who suffered from shock, was treated at the Benedictine Hospital and later returned to his home. All four men were employed by the local emergency relief bureau.

The two men most seriously injured are:

Edward Buley, 29, of 21 East Pierpont street, a driller, who may lose the sight of both eyes, and is badly cut about the head and body.

Angelo Culjak, 34, of 130 Hasbrouck avenue, blaster, who may lose the sight of one eye, and is badly cut about the body.

Both men are under the car of Dr. John F. Larkin at the Benedictine Hospital, and their condition is very serious.

Two Others Injured

Fred Longendyke of 14 Spruce street, was badly shocked by the force of the explosion, but after treatment at the Benedictine Hospital was able to return home.

Harold Longendyke, 20, of 50 German street, was injured about the head, neck and body. He is in the Kingston Hospital where his condition was reported as good. He is under the care of Dr. Van Gaasbeek and Dr. Wilson. It required two stitches to sew up a wound in the neck and three stitches were taken in the right ear. He also sustained an eye injury, which is not believed serious.

To Blast Boulder

There was a large boulder on the edge of the cliff, and the men had decided that it was necessary to blast it as it was too large to be moved with crowbars. The boulder was about 6 feet in diameter and about 3 feet in height. A hole was drilled in the boulder about 24 to 30 inches in depth and a quarter stick of dynamite inserted in the hole.

Suddenly Exploded.

Culjak was busy tamping the dynamite when it suddenly exploded. He and Buley, who stood near him, were hurled back and away from the edge of the cliff. The two Longendykes were also nearby and they were hurled to the ground by the force of the explosion.

If the four men had been hurled forward they would have fallen off the cliff, a drop of about 150 feet, and would have likely been instantly killed.

Job Had Been Inspected.

About 45 minutes before the premature explosion of the dynamite James P. Jackson, divisional supervisor of safety of the state TERA, and Albert Shultis, chief local safety inspector, had been at the quarry inspecting the work, and according to both men those in charge of the blasting were proceeding with the work as is required under the state TERA safety regulations.

Culjak Experienced Man.

Culjak, the blaster in charge of the work, is an experienced man, and had been employed as a blaster for a number of years. Before he became a blaster at the local quarry about two years ago, he had been employed by Patrick McGovern and the contracting firm of Hyman & Goodwin in New York city, where he had been doing work on the subways, and it was also said that he had worked on the Holland tunnel job.

The work of filling the hole in which the dynamite had been placed with mud and sand had been completed and Culjak was busy tamping the "pack" when the charge suddenly exploded.

City Ambulance Called.

Following the explosion the police department was notified and the ambulance sent in charge of Officers Soper and Hess. The ambulance arrived on the scene just as the injured men were being brought down to the road. Culjak and Buley were placed in the ambulance and rushed to the Benedictine Hospital, while Fred Longendyke was taken to the same hospital by Dr. Larkin in his car.

Damaging Testimony Given Today Against Captain Of Rescue Liner

Chief Officer Henderson and Third Officer Peterson of S. S. President Cleveland Say Captain Carey Showed Unnecessary Lack of Judgment In Sending Boats To Aid Morro Castle's Survivors—Will Ask Relief of Their Commands.

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—The first and third officers of the liner President Cleveland today told a board of inquiry investigating the Morro Castle disaster that they no longer wished to serve with Robert E. Carey, master of the President Cleveland, because, they charged, Carey delayed in sending life boats to aid the burning Morro Castle.

The third officer, Harold Peterson, of San Mateo, Calif., told the board he already had asked that he be relieved of his berth under Captain Carey.

Peterson said he believed more lives could have been saved from the Morro Castle if the President Cleveland's life boats had put out sooner.

The first officer, James H. Henderson, told the board he no longer had "any respect for the master" because of his failure to get life boats launched faster. He said he would ask to be relieved of his command if Captain Carey was not removed.

Meanwhile, George Alagna, second radio operator of the Morro Castle, who is being held as a material witness, was questioned again before a federal grand jury investigating the disaster.

George W. Rodgers, chief radio operator, and Charles Maki, third radio operator, of the ill fated ship, also were expected to be witnesses before the grand jury today.

Carey Testimony

Captain Carey, ruddy-faced and husky, told of heading the President Cleveland toward the blazing Morro Castle after receiving a wireless message from a land station.

The message came at 4:50 a. m. (E.S.T.) and the President Cleveland reached the Morro Castle at 6:20 a. m., Captain Carey testified.

His ship did not receive the Morro Castle's SOS, Carey said.

"We lowered two lifeboats to pick up people from the water," he went on.

Half Mile Off

The shipmaster said he passed the Morro Castle and pulled up a half mile to the lee of the burning ship.

"Was that as close as you could get, captain?" asked Captain Nielsen.

"That's a slow acting boat captain," answered Carey.

Captain Carey was asked if his boats were lowered as soon as possible.

"We got them out as soon as we could," he answered.

"Was there any trouble in getting the boats down?"

"None, whatsoever."

"You lowered the two boats only?"

"Yes, sir."

"How many people did your boat pick up?"

"We didn't pick up any."

No One to Rescue

Captain Carey said his men reported seeing no one to rescue.

He said that it required "between 6:20 to 7:08" to lower the two lifeboats.

"Have you heard of your deck officers taking any action for failure to lower the boats earlier?" Hoover asked.

"No sir."

"You know nothing of that?"

"No sir."

He said he did not know whether it was his ship which wirelessed the Tuckerton radio station for information about the burning vessel.

Captain Carey testified he saw no one jump from the Morro Castle.

"The City of Savannah was on the scene and the Monarch of Bermuda was steaming in as we reached the Morro Castle," he said.

"Both vessels were closer to the Morro Castle than we were. The Monarch was between us and the Morro Castle.

"We did everything humanly possible but we got there too late."

Captain Carey was then excused but was asked to remain within call until members of his crew had testified.

Henderson Testifies

Next called was James A. Henderson, first officer of the President Cleveland.

He said he was called about 5:30 (E.S.T.) to be informed of the Morro Castle fire. He went to the bridge with Captain Carey, he said.

He suggested to the captain they get the boats ready. His crew was already on deck.

"Did the captain order you to clear

Sensational Attack Made Today by Maniu Upon Madame Lupescu

Former Premier of Rumanian National Peasants Party Asserts Carol's Companion in Exile Is the Cause of All the Country's Evil.

Vienna, Sept. 13 (AP).—A sensational attack upon Madame Magda Lupescu, the friend of King Carol and the perennial political storm center of Rumania, was made by former Premier Maniu at a meeting in Bucharest of the executive committee of the national peasants party.

The details of Maniu's speech, the story of which was suppressed in Rumania, reached Vienna today.

"As long as Madame Lupescu remains in Rumania," Maniu told his listeners, "nobody will be able to accomplish anything good. Through her meddling in politics, thirteen governments and four elections have followed on each other's heels.

"As long as the chief of staff of the present Court Camarilla, who is Madame Lupescu, retains full power, I shall struggle with that camarilla. I shall fight it in order to save the monarchy.

"In the 42 years of my political life, my defeats have been much less numerous than my victories."

Maniu, who did more than any other politician to bring about Carol's return from his voluntary exile to Paris, an exile which also was connected with Madame Lupescu, went on to declare:

"The royal palace has walls of glass because the whole people desires and should know what happens behind them.

"Every Rumanian should receive a good example from the palace, otherwise there is no sense in spending millions for priests and teachers.

"Madame Lupescu is responsible for almost every evil in the country. I suggest we should hold party meetings all over Rumania to clear up this scandal."

Another former premier, Vaida-Voevod, defended Madame Lupescu, saying that during his terms in office she had caused no trouble. He also revealed that he had obtained Carol's promise to send Madame Lupescu abroad but that after her passport and supply of foreign money had been made ready, Carol changed his mind.

Populous Counties Want Change of Rule, Mastick Report Says

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP).—Half-way through its investigation of local governments, the Mastick commission has found that "the more populous counties want a change in government; the rural counties think they are getting along pretty well as they are."

Senator Seabury C. Mastick, the chairman, thus summed up the findings today as he prepared to continue his inquiry in Schenectady. Citizens and public officials of Schenectady county and neighboring counties were invited to the hearing there tomorrow.

Up to now there have been hearings at White Plains, Mineola, Riverhead, Glens Falls, Utica and Albany.

The Commission will report to the legislature before February 15.

"The populous counties," the chairman said, "appear inclined to favor the county executive plan. The rural county spokesmen have been inclined to regard any plan for a county head as merely adding another man to the payroll."

The county executive plan has been discussed at the hearings as one way of centralizing responsibility in local government. Members of the Mastick commission do not profess to favor or oppose the plan of a county president or county manager, but have sought the reaction of officials and citizens. Other proposals that have been discussed have been for broadening the territory of county judges to include two or three counties, and broadening the duties of sheriffs and other officials similarly.

Suffolk, Nassau and Westchester are the "populous counties" whose governments have been analyzed by the commission at the hearings.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—The position of the treasury September 11 was: Receipts, $17,725,5[illegible]; expenditures, $25,[illegible]; balance, $2,[illegible]; customs receipts for the month, $12,[illegible]. Receipts for the fiscal year since July 1, $[illegible]; expenditures, $1,175,[illegible] (including $545,[illegible],410.52 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $[illegible]; gold assets, $7,967,214,595.62.

No More Piles

Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed.

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give lasting relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when McBride Drug Stores invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.—Adv.

Popularity Begins at Breakfast

Popular people are usually well people. They are the people who feel fine, who enjoy life, who see the bright side of things—and almost always you'll find that they are the people who eat right.

If you want to be popular, if you want to go places and do things, try Shredded Wheat with milk and fruit at least one meal a day.

Shredded Wheat is a most nourishing food—whole wheat, boiled and baked—in easily digested and delicious form. It contains the carbohydrates needed for energy; the proteins needed for tissue building; the mineral salts needed for bone structure; the vitamins that help you resist disease; and bran to keep you regular. Nature might have made a better food than wheat—but she didn't!

Shredded Wheat is mighty economical, too. Start it today and see if popularity doesn't depend on the way you feel!

D. A. R. Chairmen Ask Help for Schools

As the autumn season draws near, bringing with it a renewal of activities of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. William H. Pouch of New York city national chairman, and Mrs. Bertha C. Lauren of Oneonta, state chairman, of the schools approved for assistance by that organization, are making a concerted effort to offset the hardships which many of the schools are undergoing on account of the lack of funds caused by the depression. Seventeen such schools in different sections of the United States, two of which, Tamassee, S. C., and Kate Duncan Smith, Alabama, are operated and maintained by the D. A. R. received aid from the D. A. R. Mrs. Pouch and Mrs. Lauren submit the following suggestions to members of the D. A. R. throughout the state of New York:

In regard to the Kate Duncan Smith D. A. R. School, it is earnestly requested that added interest be taken in the endowment and building funds. The need for a vocational building is very great; also for a teachers' cottage. Due to the efforts of the community and the school, enough money has been raised to fulfill necessary requirements, and Kate Duncan Smith has now been accepted as an accredited high school. The quilt industry should be patronized, for through the sale of quilts made by the mountain mothers, money earned may be used for the education of their children, as well as for themselves.

Submerged Coral Reefs Make Lightning Changes

To watch a submerged coral reef is to witness miracles, says the National Geographic society. At one moment the whole reef is alive with pulsating, expanding, waving sea creatures of delicate pastel colors. A touch, a splash, or even the shadow from a boat overhead, causes a spasm of alarm. In a twinkling every living thing on the reef has changed. Frail anemones contract and withdraw into themselves. Jeweled fish dart into holes. The banded rockfish has changed its markings and the spotted flounder that rippled over the sand is now invisible, having changed color to resemble sand. For a minute the reef remains barren and dull. Then, one by one, fish and anemones take courage and furtively emerge.

The reason for these lightning changes is obvious when one realizes the greedy cannibalism of a coral reef. Though resembling the most retiring, sensitive flowers, anemones use their tentacles to seize and paralyze fish. The sargassumfish are such cannibals that they swallow each other. In this constant warfare, being continually preyed-upon, many fish have developed unusual means of protection. The surgeon fish carries near its tail a sharp-edged spine capable of slashing its enemies. The puffer fish, under threat of being swallowed, inflates itself into an inedible, prickly ball.

Dr. Ernest H. Gruening Suggests Adding Two New States To U. S.

By a Staff Correspondent

Copyright, 1934, by The North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

Rockport, Me., Sept. 13—The strong suggestion that the forty-eight states may be augmented by two in the not too distant future is made by Dr. Ernest H. Gruening, recently appointed to the newly created post of direction of the equally new division of territories and island possessions.

Because he had not yet actually begun his work in Washington, Dr. Gruening did not want to discuss in detail the program he has been asked to put into effect in regard to Alaska, Puerto Rico, and the Hawaiian Islands and the Virgin Islands, all of which are now under the department of interior.

He was seen at his Rockport summer home, finishing up work on a "prior commitment" before moving to his new desk in Washington, and he was willing to interrupt this work to make a few significant general statements on his new job.

"Some newspapers have tagged me a 'Colonial minister'," he said. "That is entirely the wrong idea. We have no colonies. This is a democracy and the inhabitants of our various territories and insular possessions should have the same rights as citizens who happen to live in the 48 states on the continent.

"I have been given this job to put into effect a new deal for these territories, along lines worked out by President Roosevelt and Secretary Ickes. You can be sure that this new deal will be quite different from the dollar diplomacy and economic imperialism that has marked the politics of past administrations, both Republican and Democratic, toward these territories."

Dr. Gruening admitted that the question of raising one and possibly two of these American possessions to statehood must be met in the near future, and it was clear from his attitude that he is in full sympathy with a move to give territories the status of states "if they want it."

He pointed out that admitting a territory to the union is a comparatively simple process. Both Arizona and New Mexico, continental territories, were admitted to the union as recently as 1912.

There is a question of course, whether the Hawaiian Islands or Puerto Rico, for instance, would want to join the states, if offered the opportunity. Their citizens would gain some things they are eager to have but do not have now, such as the right to vote in national elections and to elect their own representatives to go to Washington.

At the same time, they would have to accept some things they are now glad to do without. One of these is a lot of federal taxes.

Dr. Gruening told about an incident that taught a congressman that a certain island possession is just as much a part of the United States as the territory within its continental boundaries.

"This congresman had had a wonderful visit in Honolulu," Dr. Gruening said. "He had been royally entertained. As he was about to leave, he thought it would be nice to make a pretty speech thanking the Hawaiians for their generous hospitality.

"He started off with 'When I get back to the United States. . .' Then a man in the audience yelled at him, 'Where the devil do you think you are now, you big stiff?'

"That's an illustration of how Hawaiians feel. They resent the barest suggestion that they are not American, and they are right."

LEIBHARDT

Leibhardt, Sept. 13—Mr. and Mrs. William Hinkley and two sons of New Jersey, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hornbeck Wednesday past.

Golden Krom of the C. C. C. Camp at Boiceville is confined to his home here with mumps.

Friends are sorry to hear of the illness of Romaine Brown of Samsonville. He is now under the care of a physician at Kingston. It is hoped he will soon be improving.

Ralph Hornbeck has recently purchased a new Ford V-8 half-ton truck from Millard's at Kingston.

Mrs. Olive Krom has returned home after being employed at "The Conrad House" in Mombaccus during the summer season.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Van Vliet and son, Baxter, of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. M. J. Gorsaline of Tobasco called at the home of the latter's daughter, Mrs. Ralph Hornbeck, Friday afternoon.

Carlton H. Locke has returned to his camp, "Shady Rest," after visiting Canada and various other places.

GUNMEN ROB FLOWER COMPANY OF $9,641

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—Striking with well-timed precision, three gunmen today robbed offices of an artificial flower manufacturing company of $9,641—a pay roll which had just been delivered by an armour truck crew.

The robbers walked through the factory at 45 West 15th street without arousing employes' suspicions, and entered the office of Daniel Kaplan, one of the company's owners. All had drawn their guns.

"Where's that payroll that was just delivered ten minutes ago?" the leader asked Kaplan.

Testimony Given Against Captain

the boats away?"

"No sir. I suggested they be cleared away."

"How close did you come to the Morro Castle when you came in?"

"It seemed about three quarters of a mile."

Henderson said he saw persons hanging from the stern of the Morro Castle and the crew on the foredeck.

He said the boats were lowered and cleared at 7:08.

"Why weren't they lowered sooner?" demanded Captain Neilsen.

"I didn't lower away until the captain ordered me."

"Do you mean to say you stood from 6:20 to 7:08 beside this big wreck without doing anything?"

"I was awaiting orders, sir."

Emergency Motor Fails

Henderson said when he put out the motor emergency boat, the motor failed and the men had to row it. The wind blew them so they could not get under counter of the Morro Castle.

"Where were the people hanging on the stern?"

"I presume they were taken off by the Monarch."

"How long were you in the water?"

"I don't know sir."

"Were you under way at 8 o'clock?"

"I don't know."

"Did you hear eight bells struck when you got on board?"

"I don't recollect."

"Too Much Delay"

Henderson said he thought there was "too much delay" in getting the lifeboats away.

"We got to do something!" he quoted another officer of the President Cleveland as saying.

"And you did nothing?"

"I stood by for orders."

"Have you asked to be released from the President Cleveland and assigned to any other ship?"

"No, sir, not as yet."

"Do you expect to?"

"That depends upon developments".

"What do you mean by that?"

"If he—(and he explained he referred to Captain Carey) is not taken off that vessel, I'll ask to be relieved.

No Respect For Master

"I have no longer any respect for the master," Henderson said.

"Why did you not make any suggestion to the master?"

"I judged he was competent. After we had laid there a while I judged he did a very poor job."

"Was he drunk?"

"No sir."

"Well, was anything wrong with him?"

"No sir."

"What do you think then?"

"I don't think he realized the seriousness of the situation."

"D o you think it was an error of Judgment?"

"Well yes, sir."

"And even if it was an error of judgement, you no longer wish to serve with him?"

"I no longer wish to serve with him."

Henderson, a square-jawed young chap, emphasized there was no delay in getting the boats lowered once the order was given.

He said the City of Savannah and Andrea E. Luckenbach were there ahead of him.

"Have you a master's license?" sternly asked Hoover.

"Yes sir."

"Have you ever been a master?"

"No sir."

"How long have you had your master's license?"

"A little more than a year."

Henderson, too, was ordered to remain in the room.

Peterson Called

The next witness was Harold Peterson, of San Mateo, California, third officer of the President Cleveland.

He said the first officer (Henderson) seemed "quite excited" as he talked with Captain Carey on the bridge as the ship was going to the assistance of the Morro Castle.

"Were any gestures employed?"

"No."—Hesitating—"No Sir."

"Do you look on the captain as a competent master?" Hoover asked.

The witness hesitated so so long Hoover asked "Why do you hesitate?"

Skipper Incompetent

"Well, I think he was incompetent in the light of what just happened.

"I am referring to the two previous years you served with him."

"Why do you hesitate in answering," asked Hoover again when Peterson paused.

"I wanted to think."

Asked if he and the other deck officers had discussed the conduct of the President Cleveland in the emergency, Peterson answered:

"We've thought of nothing else for the last four days," adding that he believed more lives could have been saved if the Cleveland's lifeboats had been put out sooner.

Peterson disclosed he had asked to be relieved of his berth under Captain Carey.

"Even if you believe the captain's only fault was an error of judgment?"

Should Have Been No Error.

"There should have been no error of judgment," he replied.

"That's what I wanted to know," answered Hoover.

The testimony of the two officers produced a sensation in the hearing room.

The board members, themselves seafarers, handled the witness with all the manner of bridge officers.

He said he heard no signals to warn passengers to go to their boat stations.

He jumped overboard with his wife after giving his life preserver away, and was later picked up and rescued. No one ever attempted to awaken him, he said, the commotion and excitement rousing him.

Considerable Drinking.

Paul Arnett of Brooklyn another passenger on the Morro Castle, followed him to the stand. He said he turned in a fire alarm on a wall box before 3 a. m. (E. S. T.) and later was taken off on a life boat.

Both Aschoff and Arnett testified to "considerable drinking" on board that night. Arnett said the crew was sober, however. He went off in one of the first boats.

"How were things in the boat—orderly?"

"Not very," Arnett replied.

"The sailors didn't seem to know much about handling the boat."

Arnett, who had not gone to bed, said he was searching for his roommate and discovered the fire in the social hall about 2:45 or 3 a. m. Only a crew member with a fire extinguisher was present at the blaze, Arnett said.

Sent In Alarm.

"Then I broke the glass of the fire alarm and pushed the button."

"—But there were no bells ringing."

Then, he said, he [illegible] down a hose and some seamen took it to fight the blaze.

"There was practically no pressure, though, and it wasn't much help. The water would come on strong and then go off again. I went along with the seamen then and smashed windows to waken passengers.

The fire spread with terrific rapidity," he said.

"It was all over in just a little bit."

Stewardess on Stand

The next witness was Lena Schwarz, a stewardess on the Morro Castle. The fire alarm awakened her, she testified.

"It was ringing in my room."

"I put my kimono on, ran to the purser's office, then went back to my room for more clothes."

She told of getting passengers to hold hands so she could lead them.

"The lights were out, but we could find our way by the light of the fire."

Asked what her station was in an emergency, she replied:

"I don't know."

She escaped by climbing down a line and being picked up by a Coast Guard boat from Shark river.

"Did you ever have any instructions on going to a fire station?" demanded Hoover.

"Truthfully—" she began.

"That's what I want you to do. I want you to tell the truth. Did you get instructions as to what to do in case of fire?"

"I did not."

"Did you have fire drills?"

"I never went to one. We had them every week."

"To whom are you responsible?"

"The chief steward."

"Do you know of any fire instructions being given to passengers?"

"No, sir."

Asked how she accounted for more crew being saved than passengers, she said she believed it was because the passengers largely were on upper decks where the fire was first.

She told of being urged by others of the crew to get into a life boat.

"They tried to shove me into a boat but I wouldn't go."

"There was a little boy standing close to me."

"I said I'd go if they'd let me take the little boy with me."

"I climbed down the line to the water and waited for them to lower the boy to me.

"I held up my hands for him, but I couldn't see him. I swam away to look for him, then started back to the ship. Then someone jerked me into a boat."

"I don't know what happened to the little boy."

The hearing recessed for lunch.

Boston Tea Party Pitcher Is a Family Souvenir

Parsons, Kan.—A small glazed pitcher, taken during the Boston tea party as a souvenir, is owned by George Weightman. Weightman's mother's great aunt received it from her sweetheart, who participated in the raid. It has been handed down from generation to generation to the female member of the family named "Anna," the original owner's name.

Underground River Abounds With Fish

Harmony, Minn.—Fish which may never have seen the light of day are thriving in turbulent underground channel waters of the recently-discovered scenic wonders cave near here.

The source of the underground river remains undiscovered. The stream rushes through a 200-foot rock-lined chamber and, piercing a stone abutment, crashes 90 feet down to lower cave regions not yet explored.

The fish species, though unverified, are held to be common varieties.

FORECLOSURE HOUSES.

Farm income, in spite of the drouth, shows a gain over 1933. Clothing trades are distinctly on the up, and will remain so unless the textile strike lasts too long. Work in these two primal necessities is moving. The serious lag is in the third necessity, shelter. There is hesitancy in the lending of money for building. One reason for this hesitancy is the ownership by banks of great numbers of foreclosed houses. The banker, asked for a building loan, in many cases refuses because he thinks the new house will compete with the foreclosure house. A competent architect remarked the other day that this logic was wrong.

People's minds do not work that way. The man who wants to build a new house on a lot he already owns does not want to buy another, even at a bargain. He will stay where he is until he can build. But if he does build, the architect, contractor and a dozen craftsmen get their share, not to mention all the men engaged in materials—steel, lumber, brick, cement, plaster and so on. Carpet, curtain and furniture trades benefit also.

All these men are going to spend their money. If enough gets moving around, people who have been renting small quarters or are doubled up are going to get around to the bank to buy its foreclosure bargain houses. Many original owners will buy them back. But if building does not get started, there will be still more foreclosure houses on the banks' hands, and there's a competition with a vicious descending spiral instead of a cheerful ascending one.

This was a new point of view to the group of men who heard it, but they nodded their heads slowly, following the implications and putting up no opposing argument. The one point upon which everyone agrees today is that building must soon start or there will be more trouble than has yet been seen. There are plenty of men, plenty of money, plenty of need for buildings. Are Americans going to lie down and let waves of distress wash over them because they haven't gumption enough to get those three factors together?

FRIED OCTOPUS.

Lowell Thomas says he's very fond of fried octopus as they do it in Naples. This does not sound very good to the average American. But then lobsters, too, taste much better than they look, and soft shell crabs are more attractive in coats of brown crumbs with tartar sauce then they were as nature made them.

In Mexico, now, they eat iguanas, which the Middle Westerner would rather have in a cross word puzzle than on a plate, though they are said to taste like frog legs and most Americans know how good they are. In China, Mr. James W. Bennett, once vice consul at Shanghai, says partridges laced with pine needles are very good, and so is venison stuffed with lichee nuts. The latter has a pleasant sound, and so have cakes of honey served with a paste of apricot seeds.

A modern kitchen congress to be held in Newark, N. J., is gathering up all those exotic dishes for a gourmets' symposium. All of them will be interesting and most of them surprisingly good. But—will anyone suggest cornmeal pancakes with lots of butter and wild strawberry jam?

A USEFUL SEA MONSTER

That Loch Ness sea monster, before it was found to be an old wrecked blimp, provided 110 man-weeks of employment for inhabitants of Invernesshire. An insurance company began in July to make an intensive search for the much-publicized but unknown creature. It hired a corps of observers, equipped them with field glasses and cameras and set them to watching. They carried on for an extra week because weather was bad and visibility poor part of the time.

The monster, or blimp, was useful to the community in other ways. Tourists who would not under ordinary circumstances have gone so far north included Inverness in their holiday travels so that they could have a look. Local hotels and stores enjoyed a nice little boom in trade on that account. Perhaps the natives on the banks of Loch Ness may feel a little regretful that their monster has been exposed in its true form. While it was still an unsolved mystery it made grand news, provided jobs, attracted visitors, stimulated research and was altogether a most unusually useful sea monster.

ARTISTS APPRAISED

The worth of a screen artist has been accurately determined by Sol Rosenblatt, motion picture code administrator, who recommends that restrictions on actors' salaries be eliminated. "A star or executive is worth as much as the public can be led to think he is worth by paying to see his offerings," Rosenblatt reported to Gen. Hugh Johnson.

The issue which gave rise to Rosenblatt's dictum was, of course, strictly commercial and he was not called upon to pass judgment upon artistic values. He measured George Arliss and Rin Tin Tin by the same yardstick, namely, their box office attractiveness. The significance of his statement is the frank revelation that Art itself accepts the standard. In a contest for stellar honors, Helen Hayes must, according to the accepted criterion, yield first place to a three-headed alley cat.

MODENA

Modena, Sept. 13.—A meeting of the Modena Fire Department was held in the fire house, Monday evening, for the purpose of discussing the establishing of a fire district to benefit tax payers.

An all day meeting of the Modena Home Bureau will be held at Mrs. Myron Shultis's home, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Steamer entertained company at their home, Sunday evening.

Mrs. Anna Miller and son Frank, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Miller at Clinton Corners.

Miss Kathryn Ross, student nurse at the Hudson River State Hospital, Poughkeepsie, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ross, Sunday.

Jack Sousa, of Yonkers, was a caller in this section of the town, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Denton, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Wager attended a birthday party for Mrs. Kate Denton at Kingston, Monday evening.

B. Van Keuren of Walden was a caller in town, Tuesday.

RISKS DURING OPERATIONS

"The higher the social standing the worse the surgical risk. This is due to the too favorable conditions under which the upper classes have lived for many generations. Successful business men, butchers and publicans, all of whom tend to be overfed, are poor risks, and again those with artistic temperaments make unfavorable patients."

"Fear of death and mistrust of their fellowmen makes certain other classes bad patients."

I am quoting Dr. B. Rooke from an article in the Practitioner as he describes the kind or type of patient who does not undergo a surgical operation very well.

He states further that bad surgical risks may be due to mental instability, overindulgence in tobacco and drugs, and those who suffer with infected teeth, tonsils, or sinuses.

A surprising feature of his investigation is that patients with heart disease usually stand the operation well, and even patients with high blood pressure and actual hardening of the arteries make fair surgical risks.

Cases of diabetes can now undergo operation safely because the condition can be controlled with insulin, and the use of dextrose one hour before operation together with 2 to 4 teaspoonsful of baking soda.

As stated before overweight individuals make poor surgical risks and it is not unusual when the operation is not urgent to have the patient get rid of 10 to 30 pounds before the operation is undertaken.

At the age of 25 operations are better borne than at any other period of life.

After the early fifties, when the degenerative or the "beginning to break down" processes are beginning to show themselves, operations are well borne. This is surprising but true.

With the exception of certain stomach operations women are better risks than men.

The worst racial risks are the Jews; the Welsh rank next.

I believe the above facts regarding the risks in undergoing surgical operations are of interest to all of us.

Synopsis of Preceding Instalments

Two planets, Bronson Alpha and Bronson Beta, torn away from another sun, are approaching the earth and the 500 picked men and women who helped Dr. Cole Hendron to build the two Space Ships have left the earth in them to transfer to Bronson Beta just before Bronson Alpha hits the earth and wipes it out. The planets are so named because their discovery is confirmed by photographs taken in South Africa by Prof. Bronson and sped by plane by David Ransdell to New York to Hendron and his daughter Eve, his assistant. Eve and Tony Drake are in love but her scientist father forbids them to marry and thus thwart his plans for them. When the Bronson Bodies had approached the earth eight months earlier, but passed on, they caused such gigantic tides and terrific seismic disturbances that only a fifth of the world's population survived. Hendron is balked for a time in building the Space Ships because he can find no metal or alloy which will withstand the heat and pressure of the atomic energy with which the giant rockets are to be driven. Then Ransdell, while on an aerial reconnaissance following the floods and earthquakes, finds such a metal, spewed from the depths of the earth. Just before the sailing of the rocket ships, Eve and Tony find two children, left on the fringe of the camp by their father, who disappears. As the last air lock is being closed, Pierre Duquesne, France's greatest physicist, lands from an airplane. He reports France's Space ship is a failure.

INSTALMENT 32

"I assure you," Hendron told Tony and Eve, and their fellow passengers, "that except for the monotony of the trip, it will offer you no further great discomfort until we reach Bronson Beta, when we shall be under the necessity of repeating approximately the same maneuver. In something less than an hour we are going to turn the periscope on France in an effort to oserve the departure of the French equivalent of our ships. We are at the moment trying to locate our second Ark, which took its course at a distance from us to avoid any chance of collision, and being between us and the sun, is now temporarily lost in the glare of the sun.

"At about mid-point of our voyage we will concentrate our attention on the collision between the Earth and Bronson Alpha. I think at this point I may express my satisfaction in the behaviour of the Ark. As you are all aware, we have escaped from the earth. We are still well within the field of its gravitational control, in the sense that if our propellant forces ceased we undoubtedly would fall back upon the earth; but the pull of gravity is constantly weakening. It diminishes as most of you know, not directly in relation to the distance, but in relation to the square of the distance. It is the great lessening of the pull of gravity which has ended our extreme distress. I am now going to convey the same information to the passengers on the deck above."

Hendron disappeared through the opening in the ceiling which contained the spiral staircase

Tony saw to the distribution of food and water. The ship rushed through the void so steadily that cups of milk, which Eve held to the lips of the children, scarcely spilled over. The passengers found that they could move from floor to floor without great trouble.

Outside the ship there was vacuum against which the airlocks were sealed. The air of the ship, breathed and "restored," was not actually fresh, though chemically it was perfectly breathable. The soft roar of the rocket propulsion tubes fuddled the senses. The sun glared in a black sky studded with brilliant stars.

To the right of the sun the great glowing crescents of Bronson Alpha and Bronson Beta loomed larger and larger. Eve sat with Tony as a periscope turned on them and displayed them on the screen They could plainly see that Bronson Alpha was below and approaching the earth; Bronson Beta, slowly turning, was higher and much nearer the ship.

"Do you see their relation?" she asked.

"Between the Bronson bodies?" said Tony. "Aren't they nearer together than they have ever been before?"

"Much nearer; and as Father—lated. Bronson Beta, being much the smaller and lighter, was revolving about Bronson Alpha. The orbit was not a circle; it was a very long eclipse. Sometimes, therefore, this brought Bronson Beta much closer to Alpha than at other times. When they went around the sun, the enormous force of the sun's attraction further distorted the orbit, and Bronson Beta probably is nearer Alpha now than it ever was before. Also, notice it is at the point in its orbit which is most favorable to us."

"You mean for our landing on it?" asked Tony.

"For that; and especially is it favorable to us, after we land—if we do," amended Eve; and she gathered the children to her She sat between them, an arm about each, gazing at the screen.

"You see, the sun had not surely 'captured' Bronson Beta and Bronson Alpha. They had arrived from some incalculable distance and they have rounded the sun, but without further interference than the sun's attraction, they would retreat again and perhaps never reappear.

"But on the course toward the sun, Alpha destroyed the moon, as we know, and this had a effect upon both Alpha and Bronson Beta, controlled by Alpha. And now something even more profound is going to happen. Alpha will have contact with the world. That wil destroy the earth and will send Bronson Alpha off in another path. One almost certain effect of the catastrophe is that it will break Bronson Beta away from the dominating control of Bronson Alpha and leave Beta subject to the sun. That will provide a much more satisfactory orbit for us about our sun."

"Us?" echoed Tony.

"Us—if we get there," said Eve; and she bent and kissed the bewildered Hendron.

At the end of the hour all the lights were turned out, and the Earth was again flashed on the screen. It's diminution in size was already startling; and the remains of Europe, stranded in a new ocean, looked like a child's model flour-and-water map.

Duquesne lay on his back on deck and stared up at the scenery. He gave an informal lecture as he looked. "We are putting distance between ourselves and a number of prize fools. These fellows are my best friends You will pick out faintly the map of Europe. Directly south of those shadows which were once the British Isles you see the conguration of the Alps. In the center of the western range are the fools of whom I spoke. They built a ship not dissimilar to this, but unfortunately, relying upon another construction than that valuable little metal discovered by Mr. —whatever his name is. I have tod them they shall melt. I hope that we shall be abe to see the joke of that fusion."

A point of light showed suddenly in the spot he had designated. Itl was very bright, and as a second passed it appeared to extend so that it stood away from the earth like a white-hot needle.

But Duquesne was not laughing as he had promised. Instead ne sat with his head bent back, his hands doubled into fists which pounded his knees. The seconds passed slowly Everyone under the glass screen watched gravely and breathlessly. Only the rocket trail of the ship could be seen, as the ship itself was too small and too far away to be visible.

Duquesne was standing. He suddenly seemed conscious of those around him. "They go, they go, they go! Maybe they have solved this problem. Maybe they will be with us.

Suddenly a groan escaped him. The upshooting light curved, became horizontal and shot parallel with Earth, moving apparently with such speed that it seemed to have traversed a measurable fraction of the Alps while they watched.

Abruptly, then, the trail zigzagged; it curved back toward the Earth, and the French ship commenced to descend, impelled by its own motors. In another second there was a faint glow and then—only a luminous trail, which disappeared rapidly, like the pathway of fire left by a meteor.

Duquesne did not laugh. He wept. After a long time he began to talk, and they listened with sympathy. "And yet I told them, but it was their only hope, so they were stubborn." He looked at the people in the chamber. "Did you see; It melted First the right tubes, throwing it on a horizontal course, then all of it. It was quickly over—grace a Dieu."

But other flashes rose and traveled on. The English, the Germans, perhaps the Italians had got away.

The implications of these sights transcended talk. Conversation soon ceased. Exhaustion, spiritual and physical, assailed the travelers.

Gravity diminished steadily, and their habit of relying upon the attractive force o fthe Earth resulted in an increasing number of mishaps, some of them amusing and some of them painful. After what seemed like eons of time some one asked Tony for more food. Tony himself could not remember whether he was going to serve the fifth meal or the sixth, but he sprang to his feet with earnest willingness—promptly shot clear to the ceiling, against which he bumped his head. He fell back on the floor with a jar and rose laughing. The ceiling was also padded, so that he had not hurt himself.

The sandwiches were wrapped in wax paper, and when some one on the edge of the crowd asked that his sandwich be tossed, Tony flipped it toward him, only to see it pass high over the man's head and entirely out of reach, and strike against the opposite wall. The man himself stretched to catch the wrapped sandwich, and sat down again rubbing his arm, saying that he had almost thrown his shoulder out of joint.

People walked in an absurd manner, stepping high into the air as if they were dancers. Gestures were uncontrollable, and it was unsafe to talk excitedly for fear one would hit one's self in the face.

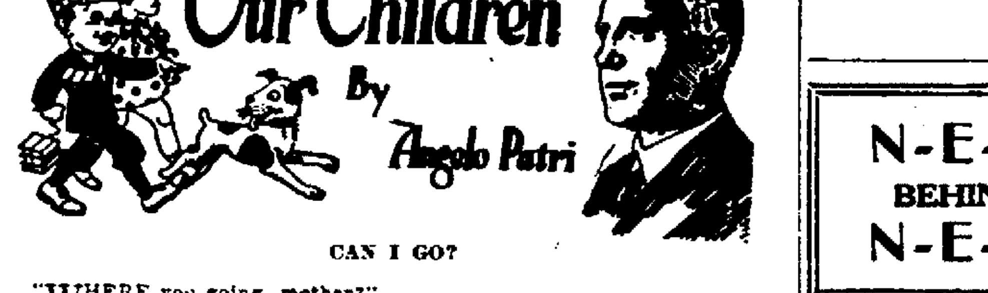

Before this condition reached its crisis, however, Hendron himself appeared in the passenger cabin for one of his frequent visits. He arrived, not by way of the staircase, but by way of a cable which was strung tautly inside the spiral, hauling himself up hand over hand with greater ease and rapidity than was ever exhibited by any sailor. He was greeted with pleasure—any slight incident had an exaggerated effect upon the passengers; but his demeanor was serious.

"I want you all to be witnesses of the reason for this journey," he said soberly.

He switched off the lights. The screen glowed, and on it they saw the Earth.

CAN I GO?

"WHERE you going, mother?"

"Down to Miller's to get a yard of elastic."

"Can I go?"

"Why yes, if you want to, but I can't imagine that it will be very interesting for you."

"Oh, yes, I want to go."

Let him go. Take him along whenever you can. Never mind about his understanding or not understanding. Every experience that a child enjoys makes his life in the present richer and stores up treasure of understanding for the future. The child who goes along with you to the shop, to the golf links, to church, to the country may not, very likely not, be able to put his experience, his feelings into words. It may not be an intellectual experience for him. But it is precious.

We see and feel and respond to life on the strength of our experiences. When we see a thing for the first time there is little in it for us save the thrill of newness. But when we look at it through a wealth of experience it is full of meaning, illumined by emotion, colored by all the experiences that have gone before.

Did you ever walk in a field on a moonlight night thrilling in every fibre of your being to some unexplainable feeling of beauty and peace and a sort of spiritual oneness with something intangible? The feeling of rich content that filled your soul welled up from thousands of experiences you gathered in the past. The coolness of the evening air, the sweetness of the growing things, the delight in the shadows are all the children of past delights. Other fragrances, other shadows, other nights of beauty are speaking again in this one.

That is why you say "Yes" to the eager, "Can I go with you." Say "yes" as may times as you can. Tuck the child into a corner of the wagon or the car, take his hand along the roadway, lift him up so he can see above his own eye level. Let him have every enriching experience possible so that his life in years to come may be full to the brim with beauty.

Some selection of experiences must be made. There are some things children need not feel, need not see, before life thrusts them upon them. Wait for those. When they are sufficiently matured nature will impose those more poignant experiences. One need not try to harden children to life's ways. Life will attend to that. What one ought to do is give the children all the fine, pleasant, interesting, beautiful experiences that it is possible to offer.

A trip to Europe is a fine experience for adolescent children. A trip to the woods is a fine one for them, too. It is not necessary to go abroad to enrich the mind and spirit of a child through experience. Home, the neighborhood, the places within reach offer about all that life holds. A trip abroad offers one set of the same kind, home another. The important thing is that the children get one or the other or both. Get experience and you get quality of mind and beauty of spirit. Yes, let him go.

N-E-W-S BEHIND THE N-E-W-S

Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon.

Poultice.

Washington, Sept. 12.—This rather indefinite NRA reorganization is really only a temporary poultice for the clawed-up black-and-blue eagle.

The unannouced purpose behind it is to heal existing open wounds in preparation for a thorough permanent health improvement program for the old bird in January. At that time President Roosevelt will submit to Congress recommendations for permanent new industrial control legislation. You can depend on that.

There will be some retrenchment of activity at once. The three branches (judicial, executive and legislative) will be organized as advertised, but only in a cautious, experimental way.

The ultimate scope of the NRA, therefore, is yet to be determined by experience from the experiment.

Salesmanship.

General Johnson's standing in the matter is not entirely clear, either to the general or any one else.

At the Hyde Park conference with the President, he was in an amiable mood. He was willing to do anything. Apparently he has sold the White House on the idea that industry is for Johnson. That may or may not be true. The way some industrialists talk around here, it is hard to believe.

Nevertheless, for that reason or others, the President is desirous of having Johnson take a fairly prominent position in the experimental work. Those who think they know the inside of the situation believe it is largely up to Johnson to determine his own position. He can either stay and help, or pass out of the picture.

The only thing certain about it is that NRA is no longer to be a one-man organization and the reorganization is not going to be a one-man job.

Peacemaking.

Johnson has an idea his ex-lieutenant sold him out and caused all his difficulties by going to the White House with the NRA situation before Mr. Roosevelt left Hawaii.

Most of the innocent bystanders who know the inside on that matter agree Johnson's view may be natural. But it is hardly justified by the facts. At least, Richberg felt he was being loyal to the New Deal, which certainly had a claim to his loyaley beyond that of the general.

A prominent peacemaker is now on the job to get these two to shake hands and forget it.

Coordinator.

The ultimate disposition of Mr. Richberg likewise is uncertain. The general inner supposition is that he will remain in his present job as coordinator of the whole New Deal.

No announcement has been made yet, but Frank Walker probably will not return to that job, which he left last spring because his private business was suffering.

Richberg has fitted in well there. His executive council reports are the best campaign documents yet concocted by the New Dealers

Ideas.

There has been some inside gossip about creating a new cabinet post of public welfare and putting Richberg in it. In fact, some consideration has been given to suggestions for five new cabinet offices, one for education, another for industry and what not.

Mr. Roosevelt does not want to create any new cabinet jobs. He is supposed to be particularly opposed to a public welfare cabinet office.

Therefore, it seems to be a safe bet that there will be no new cabinet posts, and certainly not one for public welfare.

Maine.

Democratic politics tried hard to act as if they expected the Maine victory. They really did expect Governor Brann to win, but not by the majority he received. What knocked them off their chairs, however, was their victory in the First district, where Republican Stalwart Beedy went down to defeat.

Only one Democratic politico had a premonition. He is Mr. Farley's prognosticator, Emil Hurja, whose figures two days before the election led him to report to Farley that they "had a chance" in the First district.

The reason that district has such significance is that it is the root of rock-ribbed Republicanism and the Republicans were certain of winning there.

Chip.

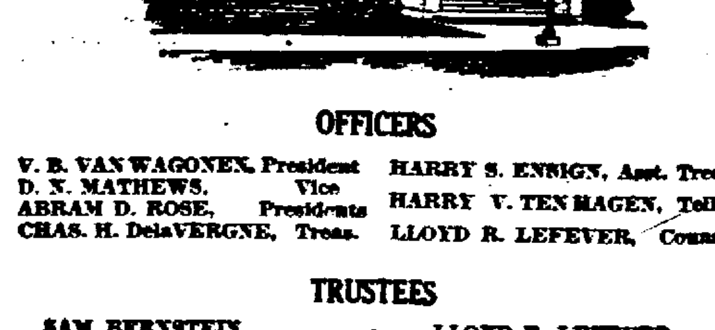

A live shade of William Jennings Bryan is going to take the sawdust trail shortly.

It is yet a secret that Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, the ambassadoress to Denmark, is returning shortly for a vacation, which she will spend, touring the country from coast to coast on the Chatauqua circuit.

Yes, she will talk about silver, too.

Notes.

There have been more reporters than spectators at the recent munitions nearings. ... The Argentine ambassador has been trotting in and out of the state department, wondering why he cannot get trade action when all those small Carribean republics can. The unspoken answer to that still is that nothing can be done about the larger trade agreements until after the elections. ... As an example of Mr. Morganthau's growth of power, his brain trustee, Dr. Viner, was the presiding genius at the recent meeting of RFC agents, FDIC officials, national bank examiners and the federal reserve crowd.

Parent-Teacher Associations

No. 4 September Meeting.

The geography class of School No. 4 were guests at the September meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association held on Tuesday afternoon, when they listened to an instructive talk on South America given by Roger Loughran, who spent four years in Buenos Aires.

Buenos Aires, Mr. Loughran asserted was founded in 1535, making it older than our St. Augustine. There are 14 provinces, each governed by a governor appointed by the president. The president serves for six years and cannot succeed himself.

The fuel problem is a serious one as there is no native coal and no wood of building value. Oil has been discovered which it is hoped will help solve the fuel problem in one province at least.

On July 4th, Mr. Loughran found one icicle hanging from a hydrant as the cold and hot seasons are opposite from ours. The people of Buenos Aires get the Paris styles before we have them. The women dress in quiet colors using black and navy blue commonly. The men wear black, even black straw hats and use perfume.

A rising vote of thanks was given to Mr. Loughran for his interesting talk. He was introduced by Mrs. Margaret Pendill, chairman of the program committee of No. 4 P.-T. A.

A letter from the TERA was read by Principal Van Valkenburgh, in which an appeal was made for clothing and shoes for needy school children. A shoemaker is in the employ of this order who will repair shoes sent in. Those having articles to contribute were requested to call TERA, 2710.

A letter was read from Mrs. J. C. Eason, Ulster county chairman of Parent Education, and Mrs. J. H. Craig, Kingston chairman of the same, announcing the Parent-Teacher Institute to be held on Friday at the Municipal Auditorium with both morning, afternoon and evening sessions. The new president, Mrs. Thomas Hart, appointed Mrs. Frank McCausland chairman to take the names of those planning to attend and report to Mrs. R. G. Blumenstock.

WOODSTOCK PASTOR TO GIVE LAST SERMON ON SUNDAY

Woodstock, Sept. 13—The Rev. H. M. Oberholtzer, D. D., will preach his last sermon as pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, Woodstock, next Sunday, September 16, at 11 a. m. He has been the church's pastor for more than 13 years and will retire from the active ministry with residence in Schenectady.

PLATTEKILL

Plattekill, Sept. 13—Mrs. Charles Everett has returned home from Syracuse where she attended the New York State Fair.

Mrs. Edmund Wager and son, Edmund, Jr., spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wright and family at Onioville.

Mrs. Lillian Harcourt and young daughter, Barbara, of Clintondale were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Fowler.

Mr. and Mrs. Voiney Waite have returned to Miami, Fla., after spending some time with Mrs. Matilda Waite.

Mrs. Irving Baxter and Mrs. Bernard Baxter were shoppers in Newburgh Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Johnston were visitors in New Paltz Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Lillian Eltinge of Clintondale is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Minard.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dempsky and children, Gladys and Irene, were out-of-town visitors Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hill entertained company at their home during the week-end.

The Rev. and Mrs. Hayward Seamon, Miss Gladys Seamon and Russell Seamon of Oak Hill, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willati Deyo. The Rev. Mr. Seamon was pastor of the Plattekill Methodist Church many years ago.

Miss Mary Conroy of Milton is teaching school in the Unionville district.

The Rev. Herbert Hahn conducted services in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Highland Sunday in the absence of the Rev. Herbert Killinder.

KERHONKSON

Kerhonkson, Sept. 13—Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Schoonmaker, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Box and Carter Depew spent Sunday in Haines Falls.

McNally's tent show played to a large crowd on Monday and Tuesday nights. It was a good show each night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Hasbrouck Decker began a two weeks vacation from bank duties on Monday. They expect to visit relatives in Tuxedo Park for a few days.

Fashions by Barbara Bell

A School Dress for Girls From Six to Twelve

This little dress is an excellent example of what smart mothers are planning as the mainstay of their small daughter's wardrobe for fall. It is made straight from the shoulders. Two inverted box-pleats in the front, and one at center back, supplying all the fullness necessary for the usual activities of girls of the age for which the dress is designed.

That simplicity is the credo of those who are designing for the rising generation goes without saying, when we analyze the little model in the sketch. Wool of a sturdy character is the practical choice of materials. Among the very new ones we find gay checks, bright plaids, narrow stripes, and plain bright weaves. Any one of them can be chosen with a secure feeling of being very much in the style picture for fall. The collar and cuffs are of contrast, preferably dark, for it survives hard usage better than light shades. The little lacings up the front are optional. They are threaded through the material and finish off with a bow at the neck. Bows and ties of all sorts may be used as substitutes, leaving the lacing out entirely.

Other fabrics, besides wool are being used extensively for school wear. Something that is looked upon covetously by many children is velveteen. When dresses of this type are made of it, two collar and cuff sets are worn alternately—one of fine lace the other of dull crepe, or a cotton fabric of suitable weave. Cottons hold their own in winter fashions; plain dark piques and poplins perhaps being the greatest favorites. Navy, wine color and bottle green are the colors that are having the greatest vogue for children this season.

HIGHLAND

Highland, Sept. 13—Mrs. Nathan D. Williams will entertain the Friday bridge club this week.

The meeting of the Nurse Association met in their rooms in the Gause Foundation on Tuesday afternoon. The town nurse, Mrs. Marian Lavelle, gave her report of work done since the last meeting and announced a pre-natal clinic to be held on September 25. She also plans to give health talks at the meeting of the association each month and to start a mother's club on Thursday afternoons each month. Mrs. James Callahan presided at the meeting.

Mrs. William Cramer is taking this week's vacation from her position in the First National Bank and with Mr. Cramer is at Sacandaga lake.

Misses Marian Williams and Barbara Merritt, John Batten and Arthur Merritt were guests of friends in Woodstock on Sunday and took part in a treasure hunt.

Harry Vandervoort, the Misses Ethel Vandervoort, Mildred Osterhoudt, Viola Wood, Katherine Burger and Lavergne Davis attended an Epworth League meeting at Walden Tuesday evening. This coming Saturday evening the zoo festival will be held at Maybrook and will be attended by members from here. On October 4 the first fall institute of the Epworth League will be held in Highland and on December 11 the Newburgh local union will meet in the Methodist church here.

On Labor day the Misses Charlotte Burton and Lois Williams with Virgil Tompkins and Homer Muller attended the ball game in New York.

An executive meeting of the Queen Esther Club was held last week with the president, Mrs. Hazel Palmer, and the year book made out. The first meeting will be on September 24 and Mrs. Maud Upright and Miss Edith Dickinson will provide the entertainment.

William Haviland has a position in Poughkeepsie with the Standard Oil Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Root of Brewster spent the week-end with the latter's mother, Mrs. Rose Seaman, on their way to camp for a week near Gloversville.

A meeting of the nominating committee for the Women's Republican Club was held Wednesday evening at the home of the chairman, Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, Jr.

Assisting Mrs. Rose Seaman and Mrs. Jacob Schuble in the dining room for the chicken supper in the Methodist Church hall on September 20 will be Mrs. Harvey Traver, Mrs. Lloyd Plass, Mrs. J. R. Mellus, Mrs. Thomas Coutant, Mrs. J. R. Swift, Mrs. Bradford Freer, the Misses Hilda and Elsie Coutant, Edith and Hattie Dickinson, Mildred Osterhoudt.

Mrs. Lorie Schantz will be hostess to the Missionary society of the Methodist Church on Wednesday, September 19. Miss Adeline Terwilliger will have the program on Stewardship.

Dr. and Mrs. Julius W. Blakely returned Monday from accompanying their guests, Mr and Mrs. Roland Barnes and daughter and Mrs. Emma Barnes to their home in Swampscot, Mass. They visited many interesting and historical spots on their four day trip.

The Appalachian Trail

The Appalachian trail, as conceived by its proponents, is a footpath for hikers in the Appalachian mountains extending from Maine to Florida, a distance of some 2,000 miles. The trail shuns automobile roads and lowlands, the purpose being to provide access to the mountains and wild country of the Eastern highlands for tramping, camping and outdoor recreation. Its route is the crestline of the Appalachian system. With the exception of national and state parks and national forests traversed, the trail is on privately owned land with the consent of owners.

MENU FOR TODAY

Menu For Friday, September 14

Breakfast: Baked Apples, dry cereal with cream, French toast, coffee.

Luncheon: Broiled oysters on toast, watermelon, sugar cookies, tea.

French Toast

Two eggs, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 6 large slices stale raisin bread. Beat eggs slightly, add salt and milk. Dip bread in mixture until covered on both sides. Fry in a little hot melted butter on a hot greased griddle. Serve with syrup.

Peach Meringue

Line a deep baking dish with slices of stale sponge cake, fill with fresh or canned sliced peaches, and sprinkle liberally with sugar. Beat the whites of 3 eggs until very stiff, fold in 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar, flavor slightly with vanilla, spread over the peaches and brown in a hot oven. Serve cold with cream.

Kellogg's PEP is the right cereal for every active body. Crisp flakes of toasted wheat. Plus extra bran to be mildly laxative. Enjoy PEP often. Ready to eat with milk or cream. Extra delicious with fruit or honey added. Buy PEP from your grocer. Buy several packages. PEP stays fresh in the patented heat-sealed inner WAXTITE bag — exclusive with Kellogg of Battle Creek.

Keep GOING with PEP!

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Liar!

West Bend, Wis.—With a tall tale of having obtained a huge order in the south for cocktail shakers, and thei committing suicide when the factory turned down the order, Stanley M. Hetland, a salesman, won the chromium plated medal in the liar's contest of the Kiwanis Club. He defeated 19 other narrators, with Mayor J. M. Knippel a runner-up.

Popularity

Chicago—It's not that Thomas Lee likes chickens, but that the chickens like him.

"I was running for a street car," he said, "when I bumped into a crate of chickens and it busted open. The chickens followed me and I picked up a couple to return them to Mr. Miller (Max Miller owner of a meatmarket) just as the police came."

Judge Erwin J. Hasten listened carefully. Then he sentenced Lee to 60 days in jail and fined him $25.

The Legion Steps In

Robinson, Ill.—William Seaney's home was destroyed by fire six months ago and two of his children were killed.

Yesterday he and his wife and their surviving daughter moved into a new modern bungalow, built for them by the local post of the American Legion with funds supplied by public subscription.

Ink, Huh?

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Police weren't sure but what they had raided a stationery store by mistake, after they seized four filled ink bottles.

Then Lieutenant William Lilburn sought to open one of the bottles. The cork flew three feet into the air and the officer's uniform was sprayed with the "ink," which, the police reported, turned out to be untaxed liquor. Thomas Sorochman was arrested.

Prison Art

Springfield, Mo.—Movie queens and desperadoes of the past and present vie for popularity at the county jail.

Jail inspectors found cell walls lavishly decorated with pictures of screen stars and such badmen as Jesse James, Al Jennings, Emmet Dalton, Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd. Of the filmland beauties, Mae West appeared to be the most popular.

It Was The Cat

Barnard, Kas.—By the "third time charm," Jimmie Adams, five, should have escaped unhurt when he took a third serious tumble in the last 18 months. But he happened to be chasing a black cat when he fell to suffer a broken arm for the third time.

Quits Tobacco; Feared Fire

Lincoln, Kas.—Grandma Holman has quit a life-long habit of smoking at the age of 104. It was not that she though it might shorten her life, she explained, but because she feared she might set her house afire.

GARDINER

Gardiner, Sept. 13—The Misses Jennie and Mary Elting returned home after spending the summer at Lake Champlain.

Mrs. Mary Smith spent Sunday with Mrs. Thomas Rilley of Modena.

Richard Scrivens and sister, Julia, spent the week-end with their sister, Carolyn Scrivens.

The Misses Helen and Jean Ann Moran spent Friday in Kingston.

Mrs. Edward Ose of Poughkeepsie spent Monday with her mother, Mrs. George Everts.

The Misses Magaline, Bernice and Ruth Williamson spent Sunday with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Grammy Clark, of Walden.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dunbar of Kingston spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. Etta Buttles.

Mrs. George Everts, Mrs. L. T. Upright and son, Tommy, spent Monday in Kingston.

Leroy Every had the misfortune to cut his foot and has been laid up for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cavanaugh spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ike Williamson.

The Misses Anna Clinton and Anna Murray spent Monday with Miss Carolyn Scrivens.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lowe of Walden spent Sunday with the Misses Elting.

Mrs. John Moran and daughter, Kathleen, and Mrs. Anna O'Neill and daughter, Florences and Bessie, spent Friday afternoon in Newburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dunbar of Kingston, Mrs. Etta Buttles and daughter spent Tuesday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene McElhenny of Newark, N. J., called on friends in town Monday.

Mrs. S. Fleming and daughter, Dorothy, have moved from Miss Edna Dugan's house to Mr. Alsdorf's house at Ireland Corners.

UNION CENTER.

Union Center, Sept. 13.—Mrs. Inez Clearwater of Mohican Lake was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wells Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Jennie Terpening, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fowler and daughters, Margie and Bobby, were Saturday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palen of Esopus. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gaul of Esopus joined the party and cards were enjoyed. The occasion was Mr. and Mrs. Palen's wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Kelly and son, Robert, of Schenectady, Mrs. A. Van Hoesen of Albany were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wells. Mr. Van Hoesen and Ralph Wells spent the week-end deep sea fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ellsworth and family of Port Ewen spent Sunday with Mrs. Ellsworth's mother, Mrs. Emma Litts.

Vicious Fish Menace

One of the most dangerous of the wild creatures of South America is a fish. Strange to say the vicious piranhas, as they are called, are not ferocious looking and usually are only 18 inches long. However, they are the terror of river crossings. They are voracious meat eaters and yearly kill hundreds of cattle and horses. Since the fish travel in schools they also have been known to attack and to kill men, stripping the flesh from the body in a few moments.

Another Speaker at Third Youth Congress

REV. IVAN M. GOULD.

The Rev. Ivan M. Gould, associate pastor of the St. Mark's M. E. Church of Rockville Center, Long Island, will address the young people of the Third Youth Congress on Friday evening at the Kingston "Y" camp at Glenerie on "The Ethical Demands for an Economic System for Such a Time as This." He will speak directly after the Rev. Ewart Edmund Turner finishes his address.

The Rev. Mr. Gould is a graduate of Syracuse University and Union Theological Seminary. He was in 1930 one of five American members of a committee to study Cultural Relation for the World Student Conference which met in Cologne, Germany.

The Rev. Mr. Gould has been much interested in the study of economics, especially during the recent years when economic changes occur rapidly. His study of them and conclusions he has drawn will prove interesting to the delegates.

He will remain at the camp, and will be available for personal interviews with any who desire to talk with him.

NO ONE FOUND FREE FROM SUPERSTITION

Survey Shows False Beliefs Are Universal.

New York.—A survey of the sources and prevalence of superstitions in the United States has just been completed by Dr. Julius B. Maller and Dr. Gerhard E. Lundeen of the Institute of School Experimentation of Teachers college.

They discovered that in general women are more superstitious than men and that persons who lived in the country have more need of rabbits' feet than their urban cousins.

The main source of superstitions, according to the investigators, is statements made by friends. Parents are evidently more practical for they are responsible for only such minor superstitions as "Winters are not as cold now as they were 40 or 50 years ago." And in view of last winter's freezing weather, the authors of the research are willing to concede that this superstition may very like become a myth of the past.

Two-thirds of those interviewed confessed that they had learned from friends and accepted as true the statements that four-leaf clover and rabbits' feet brought good luck. A like number believed that if two persons walked on the opposite sides of a post they will quarrel.

Of those questioned 8 per cent declared that they had been told in church that a person who avoided your glance while talking to you was inclined to be dishonest.

According to the authors, there are seven superstitions which many persons believe because they are convinced that they saw the phenomenon personally. The most prevalent of them is, "if you kill a snake it won't die until the sun goes down."

Drs. Maller and Lundeen feel, however, that generally speaking observation tends to correct misconceptions. They also declare that education is a great aid in stamping out false beliefs.

"Almond" Eye No Longer Fashionable in Japan

Tokyo.—No longer is the traditional "almond" eye of the Far East fashionable with the youth of Japan—and many a young Nipponese looks at the world today with "slantless" eyes.

Japanese surgeons are reaping a golden harvest from the determination of the slant-eyed youths and maidens of Nippon to look like the western movie stars whom they see on the films from Hollywood.

Some time ago Dr. Kozo Uchida, a Japanese eye specialist, invented a simple and painless method of "westernizing" Japanese eyes.

More than 20,000 young men and women have submitted to it in spite of the scathing denunciation of the older generation that the operation is unsightly, unpatriotic and an insult to the honorable ancestors of those who have the eye slant removed.

The outer corners of the upper eyelids are slightly folded back, a slight incision is made, and a few stitches with superfine surgical thread are inserted. Within a week the wounds heal, leaving no trace of a scar.

Bobolink Coloring Differs

The bobolink is the only song bird that is black below and largely white above. This is a direct reversal of the normal tone pattern of other birds, which are almost always lighter below.

Will it not at last take the "glory" out of war to learn that munitions makers are above country and patriotism but depend for their profits—which are huge—on cultivating love of country and patriotism in those who must fight when war comes?

The young man who tries to see how close he can let a flirtation go without landing into matrimony is in the class with the parachute-jumper who tries to see how close to the ground he can fall without opening his chute.

Visitor—What are the dining hours at your club?

Director—From 6 to 8 for all except the directors.

Visitor—Why the exception?

Director—Because Rule 5 says: The Directors are at liberty at any time to fill the vacancy in their midst.

What this country needs today, more than anything else we can think of right at the moment . . . is more cash customers.

Wife—Did your wife scold you when you got home so late last night?

Friend—No. For once I was in bed. The people next door were having a family spat and she was so busy listening that she forgot all about me.

Sometimes those big hats hide beautiful faces and some other times, peering underneath, one is disappointed.

Keeper—You think you're sane, eh? Well, if we give you your liberty will you keep away from liquor and women?

Asylum Inmate—I certainly will.

Keeper—Then you stay in. You're still crazy!

Women generally are divided into two classes. Those who have had operations and those who have lost the set from their engangement ring.

Youth—So your sister is married? Is she happy?

Girl Friend—Very. The only thing that annoys her is her husband.

The most cordial handshake is the one that is trying to sell you something.

Man (in prison garb)—Hide me, quick! I'm an escaped wife-beater!

Henpecked Husband—Hide you nothing! I'll hire you!

Probably if you look up the biography of the checker champion you'll find he was once a city fireman.

Only two passengers had survived the shipwreck, a woman and a Scotsman. By the end of their second week their clothing was in tatters, their food was exhausted and the outlook was dark indeed.

"It just couldn't be worse," moaned the woman. "Ah, but it could," said the Scotsman. "I might have bought a return ticket."

Probably one of the things wrong with the country today is that too many men are trying to find out what is wrong with it.

A young man whose knowledge of cards was vague was roped in to complete a bridge four. He committed his first mistake by throwing away a king on a trick already taken by his opponent's ace.

His Partner (bellowing)—Good Heavens! A king doesn't beat an ace!

Beginner (stammering)—I know, but I thought I'd find out.

Man—And yet here you are begging.

On The Radio Day By Day

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

(Time is Eastern Daylight)

New York, Sept. 13.—The networks will have their hands full on Saturday if they broadcast all of the sporting events called for in their program listings.

In the space of a comparatively few hours they intend to crowd in descriptions of yacht racing, polo, golf, horse racing and even a western rodeo. The yacht contest will take up the most time, four transmissions of the first day of the America's Cup event to be spread out on NBC and CBS. At various times between these broadcasts will be inserted two races at the Belmont Park track, the Men's National Amateur Golf finals, the East-West polo matches, and finally the Pendleton, Ore., roundup.

Fewer Drinking Places After September 30

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP).—New York state will have about 20 per cent fewer restaurants, hotels, and clubs where liquor and beer may be consumed after September 30.

This was revealed today as the state liquor authority pushed ahead with its work of renewing the combination liquor-wine-beer licenses effective October 1 for the ensuing year.

The authority itself will be responsible for the closing of at least 15 per cent of the establishments now holding permits as the result of disapproval of the manner in which they have been operating, said Charles McLaughlin, an executive connected with the Albany zone office.

Decision of licensees not to seek a renewal of their permits because of poor business or other reasons will account for the remaining five per cent.

About 4,000 applications have been sent out from the state headquarters here, 10,000 from the New York office and 2,000 from the zone offices at Buffalo.

The new licenses will carry more rigid regulations than under the alcoholic beverage control board which was legislated out of existence with the creation of the state authority last July 1.

The new regulations prohibit exterior signs advertising liquor, wine or beer and provide that interior brand signs must not quote the price nor exceed 270 square inches in size. Credit cannot be extended, except by clubs to bona fide members and by hotels to registered guests, and no gambling will be permitted on any premises.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, Sept. 13—Mrs. Harry Huling has returned to New Paltz after being away all summer.

Ralph Garcia and Marie Garcia of Plattekill are attending the New Paltz Centralized High School.

The Ramapo Valley Clergy Club met in the Methodist Church Monday, September 10. Those attending were the Rev. and Mrs. Peter C. Weyant of Newburgh, the Rev. and Mrs. Stockdale, Montgomery; the Rev. and Mrs. Hazzard, Sloatsburg; the Rev. Robert Guice, Modena; the Rev. and Mrs. Roscoe Strivings, Stone Ridge; the Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Wahl, Goshen; the Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Taylor, Valles Gate; the Rev. Forrest Edwards, Monroe; the Rev. R. Edwards, Deposit; the Rev. and Mrs. J. Elmer Cates, Walden; Mr. Baumgarten, Y. M. C. A. secretary of Orange county; the Rev. M. O. Bennett, Cornwall; the Rev. Foxton, Chester; the Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Mr. Ross, chaplain of Hampton Farms at Chester; the Rev. and Mrs. Howard E. Thompson, Newburgh; the Rev. John Diekman, the Rev. and Mrs. Robert L. Mauterstock, New Paltz. The Ladies' Aid Society served the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McLinden of South Chestnut street were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. James McLinden at Gardiner.

Harry V. Harp has returned to Greenwood Lake where he has been principal of the school there for three years.

Miss Jane Adee entertained guests over the week-end.

Mrs. Edward Elmore, Mrs. Lester Harvey and Miss Gertrude Sutton were awarded prizes at the luncheon and bridge held at the Marian Miller Tea room in Newburgh Friday. Sixteen members and guests attended.

The Coward family, who have been spending the summer in New Paltz, have returned to their home in Riverton, N. J., for the winter.

Mrs. Ella G. Butz, who has been spending some time at West Philadelphia, has returned to New Paltz.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah P. LeFevre visited friends in Modena Thursday.

Evelyn Roosa, Marie Van Wagenen and Frances Pine of Stone Ridge are attending the normal this year.

Donald Minard, Dorothy Fowler and Irene Sigmund of Plattekill have entered the high school at New Paltz.

Regular services were held in the Methodist Church on Sunday, September 9. Following the Sunday school session, the church service was in charge of the pastor, the Rev. Robert L. Mauterstock, who took for his sermon subject, "The Meaning of Christian Brotherhood." George Newton was soloist. The Epworth League was in the form of a worship service conducted by Miss Elaine Kniffen and assisted by Blanche Guinac, Joyce Mauterstock, Margaret Kevan, Grace Mauterstock, Albert Smith, Robert Mauterstock, Jr., Samuel Kevan and George Smith. At the evening meeting the pastor's subject was "An Antidote of Failure."

The Methodist Sunday school and church congregation will hold an indoor picnic in the church recreation room on September 20.

Number of Countries

The Statesman's Year Book lists 68 different countries, taking the British Empire as one, France, with her colonies, as one, etc. The largest (next to the British Empire) is Soviet Russia, 8,144,228 square miles; the smallest, the See and Church of Rome, 108.7 acres, and Monaco, 370 acres.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Kiss and Make-Up" and "Half a Sinner." Cary Grant, Genevieve Tobin, Helen Mack, Edward Everett Horton and the Wampus Baby Stars of 1934 complete the cast of the first attraction, an amusing musical romance that has its moments of excellence during the run of the film. It concerns the trials of a handsome beauty doctor whose clients fall in love with him. "Half a Sinner" is the second feature and it tells the tale of a deacon whose apparent innocence makes him the drawing card for gamblers, but these same gamblers find him a tough nut to crack. A romance runs through the picture with Joel McCrea and Sally Blane in the featured roles.

Orpheum: "Palooka" and "Murder on the Campus." James Durante and Lupe Velez get along in gusty fashion in this story of a country yokel and his climb up the ladder of success through prize fighting. Stuart Edwin is the country boy who makes good and Robert Armstrong is also a member of the cast. The whole show was conceived in an effort to give Mr. Durante a chance to dust off some of his best antics, and it is pretty brisk entertainment as a while. "Murder on the Campus" is well explained by the title. Shirley Grey and Charles Starrett are featured.

Broadway: "Return of the Terror." For sheer thrills, uninterrupted suspense, mystery and murder, here is a wow of a show that will bring chills to the spine from the start of the picture. The action takes place in an insane sanitarium, and what transpires there is one long shudder followed by another. Mary Astor, Lyle Talbot, John Halliday and Frank McHugh are in the cast.

Tomorrow

Kingston: "Straight is the Way." Franchot Tone scores 100 per cent in this talkie that gives him a long needed opportunity to prove his ability as an actor. After a series of play boy roles where his dramatic moment lacked the punch of a mosquito bite to no fault of his own, he appears in this latest picture as Benny Horowitz, gangster and tough guy. The show opens as he leaves prison, determined to go straight, but the old gang and the old girl friend see to it that he doesn't tread the straight and narrow. It's exciting drama, brilliantly acted and cleverly dialogued. Supporting Mr. Tone are such important players as Karen Morley, C. Henry Gordon, May Robson, Nat Pendleton and Gladys George.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

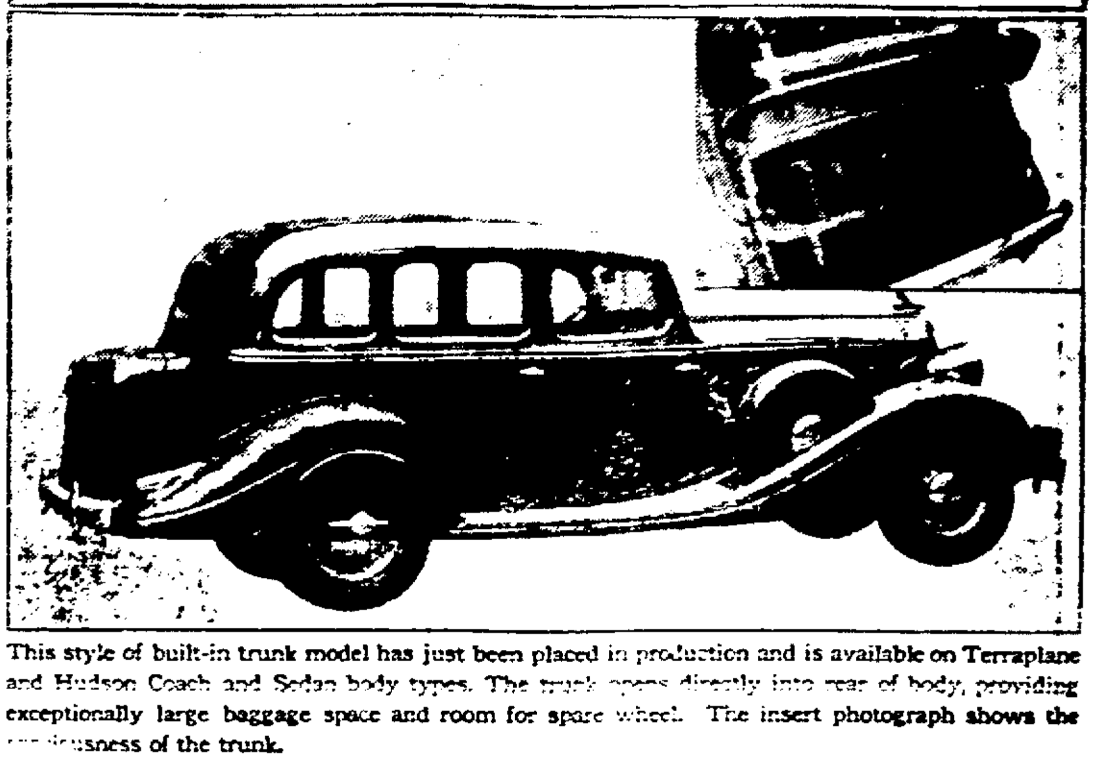

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain . . . Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

ENROLLMENT PERIOD AT THE MORAN BUSINESS SCHOOL

Both day and evening sessions of the Moran Business School, Burgevin Building, are now organized for the Fall Term, with classes running on regular schedule.

These classes will be augmented from week to week throughout the fall. This arrangement is made possible by the Moran School's unique teaching system, instruction in the major subjects being given individually or in small groups. Day students who were unable to enroll at the beginning of the term may enter on any school day, preferably on Monday. Night students may begin courses on any Tuesday or Friday.

Warrants Issued.

Sarnia, Ont., Sept. 13 (P)—With the issuance of warrants for two men, the search for the kidnapers of John S. LaBatt, brewer of London, Ont., took definite direction today here and in the United States. Police of both countries were asked to look for Albert Pegram, also known by several aliases, and David Meisner, named in the warrants issued last night. Pegram was described as a former Detroit bootlegger and Meisner was said to have been arrested a number of times on various charges.

"From $35,000 a year to nothing in four years," is the saga of Hack Wilson, former National League slugger. "Well, Hack," say most of us, "what took you so long?"

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Talked with a young man whose profession is denoted by a green carnation. He's a gigolo. Makes his living by dancing. Not a bad living at that. His earnings run about $30 a week. Tips are his bread and butter. Has no trouble with New Yorkers. They are accustomed to tipping. But not all New Yorkers are accustomed to tipping gigolos. So they don't know how much to pay. That often results to the advantage of the gigolo. Being in doubt, the New Yorker tips twice as much as he thinks is right. Out of towners are different. They are really bashful about tipping a good-looking, well-dressed, polite, light-footed young man. They offer to buy drinks instead. Gigolos don't drink. It interferes with business. So they turn down even champagne. That makes it tough. And they don't get the tip. That makes it more tough. On the other hand, many out of towners fold up a bill and hand it to the gigolo in the form of a handshake.

* * *

Gigolos are investigated carefully before they are employed. Their records have to be clean. Also they have to have personality, tact, poise and intelligence— all this of course being quoted from the conversation with the young man with the green carnation. In addition, they have to have endurance. Not all of the dear sex who like to dance are good at it. In case of trodden toes, the gigolo smiles and apologizes—and hopes that the tip will be large enough to justify his stoicism. Gigolos dance only with ladies when their escorts make the request. The reason is that some escorts forget that gigolos are merely paid dancing men. Many men are timid about making the request. But their wives or the wives they happen to be with are good at making suggestions. So the gigolos keep busy.

* * *

It doesn't do anyone any good to ask a gigolo his name. He will give one. But it is merely one he has adopted. He is even less frank about himself. The rules make him just a gigolo, and he's content. Sometimes it takes a lot of finesse to retain information and not give offense. Women are the most persistent questioners. But the gigolo tries merely to impress his number on his partner—if she is a good dancer or if her escort is a good tipper.

* * *

Getting back to tips. They run from a half dollar up. The biggest tip my informant ever got was $10. That was for dancing almost all evening with the young wife of an elderly man. He had heard of another gigolo who was paid $25 every night by a husband. The husband likes to dance. But he has foot trouble.

* * *

Leaving gigolos and taking up newspaper men. The wife of an assistant city editor continually impressed on her two daughters that they were never to marry newspaper men. The husband arrived home one evening to find his wife all smiles. One of the daughters had been notified that she was to edit the school paper next term. The husband didn't share her enthusiasm. Taking the child aside, he told her that she was to learn to stop grounders and catch flies. "This family doesn't need any more newspaper workers," he continued. "What it needs is a good second baseman." And his wife lit on him for not considering the welfare of his children!

* * *

Which reminds me of Chet Shafer, head of the former pipe organ pumpers guild, who after some time among the Seven Million, has returned to Three Rivers, Mich., to write and prepare for the fall sausage season. Finding himself with a surplus of $10.50, he went out and bought one of those old-fashioned nickle-plated fire engines—something he had wanted all his life.

Suva, Fiji Islands.—A startling discovery of incalculable historical and archeological value was made known here by Arthur Vogan, famed archeologist, who revealed that he has located an immense cathedral-like cavern on the Fiji Islands of Yasawas, on the walls of which are carved Chinese inscriptions of 2000 B. C.

Seeds From King Tut Tomb Bear Flowers

Everett, Mass. — Seeds taken from King Tut's tomb are responsible for the attractive sweet-pea plot in Charles W. Benton's back yard. A relative in Sweden, fearing to plant the seeds because of the "curse of the Pharaohs," sent them to Benton. It is estimated that the seeds are at least 4,000 years old.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell the decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our liver can't digest it. What is the liver juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and much of our food decays in our 25 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath but we don't, and we feel like a whipped cur, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25c. ©1934, C.M.Co.

SEE FUEL OIL CHANGED TO GAS!

Witness This Amazing Oil-Gasifying Home Heating Demonstration

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF ITS ABSOLUTE SAFETY—ITS ECONOMY—ITS SILENCE AND ITS UTTER SIMPLICITY!

FACTORY REPRESENTATIVE WILL DEMONSTRATE

Thursday – Friday – Saturday

AT THE SHOWROOM OF

BERT WILDE, INC.

632 BROADWAY, KINGSTON, N. Y.

"SEEING IS BELIEVING"

AND we want you to actually see a dramatic demonstration of the CHALLENGER heating equipment with its unique and exclusive gasifying features.

Right out in the open, without any special equipment, just a simple demonstration, you will see this amazing automatic oil gasifying heating unit in operation.

We want you to see why such a demonstration is mechanically possible. We want you to see how simple the CHALLENGER is in its operation.

You will then readily understand why the unique design of this heating unit permits such a startling demonstration of its SAFETY, SIMPLICITY, QUIETNESS and ECONOMY.

Look into the carbureting chamber. See oil transformed to gas and entirely consumed.

See the complete elimination of electrical ignition which once and for all does away with the possibility of puff-backs and explosions.

See why noisy forced drafts are also eliminated and why the CHALLENGER is absolutely silent.

Examine the patented features of the CHALLENGER, the invention and perfection of which have revolutionized the principle of automatic home heating.

Columbus stood an egg on end

Franklin discovered electricity

Valjean perfected the Gasifying Home Heating Unit

DURING THE DEMONSTRATION LOOK AND ASK FOR THESE FEATURES FOUND ONLY IN THE CHALLENGER

1. ECONOMY—The carbureting chamber, scientifically constructed, mixes the proper proportion of air and oil gases, thereby entirely eliminating waste.

2. SILENCE—Because it is not necessary to force air and oil into the combustion chamber under high pressure, roars and other objectionable noises have been done away with.

3. SAFETY—The patented features make it possible to do away entirely with electrical ignition, thereby assuring absolute safety.

4. SIMPLICITY—The unique engineering principles employed permit the complete elimination of pumps, large motors, nozzles and other mechanical devices which may get out of order.

Your Fall Blouse

Edited by

LAURA I. BALDT, A.M.

For many years Assistant Professor of Household Arts, Teachers College, Columbia University, New York

A smart blouse is today's item—one of the favored Paris models and a darling affair.

It provides for either neckline—draped in soft cowl effect or as in lower sketch in open V with a bow to accent its femininity.

If you prefer your blouse tucked in, well, you may have it so with today's model.

For afternoons, it's lovely in soft satin crepe in chocolate brown. The lower blouse favors bright red crepe silk for ordinary day wear.

Plaided taffeta is very youthful choice.

Style No. 3209 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust.

Size 16 requires 2⅜ yards 39-inch material.

Send TEN CENTS (10c) in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Write plainly NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE YOU WISH.

Let the latest FALL AND WINTER BOOK OF FASHIONS solve your clothes problems at a minimum of cost and effort. It tells you how to make a smart coat as easily as a simple dress. There are clothes for elaborate occasions as well as many smart trim designs for general wear. You'll enjoy reading about your favorite screen stars. You simply mustn't miss this issue.

PRICE OF BOOK 10 CENTS.

To Speak On Disaster

Pine Hill, Sept. 13—The Rev. Gordon B. Fear, who with Mrs. Fear and daughter, Audrey, have been passing the week at Ocean Grove and Asbury Park, will speak at the Sunday church services on the tragedy of the Morro Castle disaster. Mr. and Mrs. Fear were at the Jersey coast resort when the disabled ship was beached at Asbury Park last Saturday evening.

Home Heating Show At Bert Wilde Store

An unusual demonstration of oil-gasifying home heating equipment will begin today and continue Friday and Saturday at the show rooms of Bert Wilde, 632 Broadway. This demonstration will set forth the merits of The Challenger, the latest development in heating equipment and will be conducted by a manufacturer's special representative, whose appearance in Kingston has been arranged by Mr. Wilde, distributor for the device.

One of the features of this equipment is its simplicity, silence, safety and economy, which is made possible by the fact that the equipment does not burn oil but transforms oil into gas and then burns the gas. This is made possible by means of patented features which are exclusive with The Challenger.

Installation of this equipment is possible in every type of boiler and will change any boiler or furnace into a modern heating plant. Arrangements have been made at the Wilde building on Broadway at O'Neil street to accommodate a large number of visitors during the demonstrations which will be conducted from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

By the demonstration, people will see oil transformed into gas and then burned in the heater. They will also see the complete elimination of electrical ignition which does away with puff-backs and explosions according to the representative of the company. The patented features, the invention and perfection of which have revolutionized the principle of automatic home heating, also may be examined.

Mr. Wilde especially invites home owners and others who are planning to improve their heating systems this fall to witness the demonstrations.

Good News for Kidney Sufferers!

FOLEY PILLS go right into the [illegible] ... [illegible]

HAVE you an "only-son" husband, or a family that's fussy about its food? Then try this new and better ready-mixed biscuit flour. There'll be no more struggles in the kitchen and blank stares at the table for you. A little water or milk . . . a minute's time . . . a hot oven . . . and the trick is done. Your family is delighted.

TEST MINITMIX IN THESE THREE WAYS

1. Biscuits with jam or honey 2. Shortcake with berries or peaches 3. Dumplings with chicken or meat

THEN TEST MINITMIX FOR THESE THREE THINGS

1. Lightness—The moment you lift the pan from the oven you know you have achieved success. Light as puff balls—dainty as bits of fluff—Pillsbury's Minitmix biscuits just melt in your mouth!

2. Flavor—As you break open your first biscuit, you know a new delight. Even before you taste it, your nose knows it's good. As your teeth sink through its crisp, flaky crust, you enjoy the real flavor of a truly perfect biscuit.

3. Color—Note the rich creamy whiteness of the velvety crumb, the delicate nut-brown color of the crust—a color which temps the most hard-to-please appetite!

Try this newest addition to a famous old family of foods and prove for yourself its superiority in FLAVOR—QUALITY—CONVENIENCE

PRESENTING THE WIDE WORLD IN PICTURES

Copyright 1934, Wide World Photos, Inc.

MORRO CASTLE PASSENGER TESTIFIES: Dr. Clendenning Morris Phelps of New York, who was rescued after being in the water seven hours, states at the Federal inquiry in New York that he heard no fire alarm, and was awakened by his wife who smelled smoke.

THE MORRO CASTLE'S CHIEF ENGINEER TELLS HIS STORY: Eben S. Abbott, at left with hands upraised, admits under oath at the Department of Commerce investigation in New York, that he never went to the engine room after the fire alarm had been sounded and that the situation when he first saw the fire appeared to be a case of "every man for himself." He testified that he left the blazing liner in a lifeboat about forty-five minutes after being awakened in his cabin.

AN OFFICER WHO CAME ASHORE IN A BOAT WITH ONE PASSENGER: Anthony Bujia, first assistant engineer of the Morro Castle, being sworn before testifying that his lifeboat carried 18 or 20 of the crew and only one passenger.

TEXTILE WORKERS WHO REFUSED TO STRIKE: Ellen Sandler, standing on a loom at the Botany Worsted Mills in Passaic, N. J., receives the pledges of her fellow workers in the plant to continue to operate their machines.

THE LAST MAN TO LEAVE ENGINE ROOM: Arthur Stamper, the Morro Castle's third engineer, who carried on after lights went out until smoke drove him to the deck from which he jumped overboard, at the investigation in New York.

REVEALING AIRCRAFT DEALINGS IN SOUTH AMERICA: J. S. Allard (left), and C. W. Webster (centre), of the Curtiss-Wright Export Corp., at the Senate munitions committee hearing, where they admitted that the concern negotiated with both Bolivia and Paraguay, without either country knowing of the deals with the other.

THE WORLD'S MIDDLEWEIGHT TITLE CHANGES HANDS: Vince Dundee, defending champion, slips to the canvas with Teddy Yarosz, a youngster from Monaca, Pa., towering over him during the 15-round titular fight in Pittsburgh, in which Yarosz won a unanimous decision.

THE BIGGEST SHIP TO FLY THE UNION JACK: Aerial view of the "534," the giant Cunarder, on the stocks at Clydebank, Scotland, which is to be named by Queen Mary at the launching on September 26. The vessel will be placed on the trans-Atlantic service next year.

NEW BOBBY JONES DEFEATS THE VETERAN OUIMET: Bobby Jones (left), an unknown 18-year-old Detroit schoolboy, playing in his first national tournament, with Francis Ouimet whom he defeated 1 up in a round of the National Amateur golf championship at Brookline, Mass.

2 ARE SHOT AS 3,000 TEXTILE STRIKERS FIGHT RHODE ISLAND TROOPS: Mob fleeing from National Guardsmen and state police during the rioting at a mill in Saylesville in which eight strike sympathizers were shot and 132 persons, including eighteen soldiers, were injured. Governor Green has mobilized the entire National Guard and placed the Saylesville district under martial law.

Gov. A. C. Ritchie Gets Maryland Support for Autumn Re-election

By the Associated Press

New York—Nominations candidates for Congress and state offices.

Maryland—Gave Gov. Albert C. Ritchie the Democratic renomination in yesterday's primary.

New York Republicans and Democrats made nominations in their primary election today for 43 representatives—the largest state delegation in congress with many incumbents having opposition.

Most of the contests lay in New York city where only five Democratic Congressmen, of 21 seeking renomination, were unopposed. There were 22 congressional contests among the Democrats and nine among the Republicans.

Gov. Eugene Talmadge won renomination yesterday in Georgia where the Democratic nomination means election—in a landslide victory over two opponents. Judge Claude C. Pittman, his closest rival, charged Talmadge with opposing the Roosevelt recovery program, but the governor replied that his stand was "Roosevelt and Talmadge."

A turn-over in the state's delegation to congress was in prospect as incomplete returns showed three of the ten representatives trailing in their contests.

Returns from yesterday's primary in Maryland gave Gov. Albert C. Ritchie the Democratic re-nomination. The Republican gubernatorial contest lay between Harry W. Nice and U. S. Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough.

In the Democratic contest for the senatorial nomination, George L. Radcliffe held the lead over William Milnes Maloy. The Republican race was also in the air between former Senator Joseph I. France, John Philip Hill and C. Wilson Miller.

Four Men Injured In Dynamite Blast

Other Holes Set Off.

Several other holes that had been loaded with dynamite were set off after the accident by Otto Major, another blaster at the quarry. This was done to prevent any further accidents. The blast hurled a large stone down on the Wilbur road where it crashed through the top of an automobile owned by one of the quarry employes, which was parked along the road.

To Make Investigation.

Mr. Jackson planned to make a thorough investigation of the accident today at the request of the local emergency relief bureau.

Under State Compensation.

All four men are TERA employes and compensation in their cases is taken care of by the state TERA or under the law relief workers are thus cared for financially.

Explosion a Mystery.

Just what caused the premature explosion is a mystery at the present time. Culjak and Buley were in too serious condition to be interviewed to ascertain if they could offer any explanation.

Gen. Pershing Today Enjoys 74th Birthday

The commander in chief of the United States Army in the World War, erect as when he was a cadet at West Point, received hundreds of congratulatory telegrams and letters. He found reading and replying to them a pleasant occupation.

"It's a day like any other," he said. "I am here taking a cure at the springs, and I find I am being benefited greatly. My health is good."

Meeting Postponed

The organization meeting to form a Republican Club in the eleventh ward which was to be held this evening has been postponed until Friday evening, September 14, due to the fact that the room where the meeting is to be held is being used for election purposes today. The meeting will start at eight o'clock and will be held in the Community Hall, corner Fair and Franklin streets.

Police Arrest Man On An Old Warrant

Since April of 1933 the police department have been looking for Walter DeGraff, 32, of 41 Lincoln street, who was wanted on a warrant issued at that time charging him with the unlawful employment of a minor. DeGraff was seen for the first time in a year on Thursday and other Barmann armed with the warrant drove to DeGraff's home and arrested DeGraff under arrest. This morning in police court the hearing was adjourned until Saturday.

The arrest was the outgrowth of a plan to level off the parking grounds opposite the Great Bull Market on Smith avenue. It is alleged that DeGraff hired a number of trucks and men to work on the grounds, but when pay day came he had disappeared. A delegation of workers called at the city hall in April of 1933, and at that time one of their number swore out the warrant on which DeGraff was arrested.

Rosendale Township Assoc. Meets Monday

The next regular meeting of the Rosendale Township Association will be held in Firemen's Hall in Rosendale on Monday evening at 8 o'clock at which time final plans for the big parade to mark the celebration of the completion of the Kingston-New Paltz road will be made. The directors will also submit reports on business at the summer boarding houses during the past season.

The association will also make plans for the week-end holiday of October 12, and listen to a talk from a representative from the New York bus line.

Boarding housekeepers especially are requested to be present to formulate plans for special excursion week-end trips during the fall season.

There will be special entertainment during the evening, and as it is an open meeting everyone is invited to attend.

Today Is Primary Day In Kingston

Today is Primary Day and the polls in the various wards in the city opened at noon and will remain open until 9 o'clock this evening. There are no contests and it is expected that the tickets selected at the Republican and Democratic county conventions will be approved by the voters at the primaries.

DAFOE HOSPITAL READY FOR OPENING ON FRIDAY

The doors and windows will be flung wide, and as soon as the brisk Ontario winds have cleared out the odor of fresh paint the famous sisters, born May 28, will move to their winter home.

David A. Croll, minister of welfare, will unlock the building, and it will be blessed and deicated to its service by Bishop H. T. P. Ryan of Pembroke.

Winnie Mae Is Damaged

Oklahoma City, Sept. 13 (AP)—Wiley Post, globe flier, said today that his famous plane, the "Winnie Mae," was so badly damaged in his recent stratosphere test flight that he will be forced to abandon plans to compete in the London-Melbourne air derby. "Stoppage of an oil line so badly damaged the special supercharger," Post stated, "that it will have to be completely rebuilt, which will take a month to six weeks and force my withdrawal from the big race."

About The Folks

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Hockenbury of Mountain View avenue have returned after a week's visit to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Rowe and daughter, Joan, of 236 Catherine street, and Mrs. Ephraim Rowe of Allaben, on Sunday motored to Haddam, Conn., where they will spent their vacation at the home of Mrs. Rowe's daughter, Mrs. Michael Sweeney.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Horan and family have returned to Brooklyn after spending their vacation at their summer home in Kingston. They were accompanied by Miss Kathryn Horan and Miss Margaret M. Donoghue, also of Brooklyn, who were visitors for two weeks.

Century of Service of Rondout Methodists

One hundred one years ago a class of Methodists was organized in Rondout by the Rev. Orrin Fiss who was pastor at that time of the Methodist Church in Kingston. The meetings of this group were held in private houses at various points from Kingston Point to Eddyville.

When the Kingston pastor or other itinerant minister preached the services were held in the schoolhouse, district No. 7 which stood on a rocky bluff at the corner of Abeel and Wurts streets. The first Methodist Episcopal Church edifice in Rondout was built in 1841.

The members of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church are celebrating the anniversary of more than a century of service by a congregational dinner which will be held in the dining room of Trinity church Wednesday evening September 26 at 6 o'clock. It is hoped that every member of Trinity Church will be present. The former pastors of the church have been invited.

The history of the church is being prepared by Miss Mary Hale and will be read that evening. There will be other guests speakers. The music for the evening will be in charge of Miss Laura Bailey choir director.

This gathering is a part of a general anniversary program which begins Sunday, September 23 when Bishop W. F. Anderson, D. D. speaks at the morning service at Trinity Church and Bishop Francis J. McConnel will speak at the evening service.

Tragedy Puts End To College Club Outing

[illegible] Kingston [illegible]

[illegible] were eye witnesses [illegible] which put an end [illegible] boys and girls [illegible]

[illegible] reached the side of a stream [illegible] and Pierce ventured out into the swift running current, while the rest of the group remained on the bank [illegible] encouragement. Suddenly [illegible] that he was in danger and was desperately fighting the turbulent waters when he was knocked down. The current dashed him against a rock and carried his body perhaps six yards when it became firmly wedged between two rocks. The head and shoulders were submerged and only the legs protruded.

It all happened in a few seconds and Jerry's older brother, regardless of his own life, jumped in after him. He made desperate efforts to free the body but the current was too strong and the body was too tightly wedged. He finally was forced to give up and make his way back to shore.

Someone raced back to camp for rope and axes. They constructed a bridge and shoved it out to the rocks. They tied ropes to the body and tried to hoist it out but this too failed so tightly was it jammed between the rocks. It was four hours later that the body was recovered by the use of block and tackle.

Jerome Pierce came from Springfield and would have been a freshman at Middlebury College this fall. His brother, John, is an upper classman at the same institution.

The group of boys and girls were members of the Intercollegiate Outing Club Association enjoying College Week which is held each September.

Complete Plans For Celebration

grand marshal of the parade. He said that at 4:45 o'clock two taps would be sounded on the fire bell which would mean for those taking part to get into position. One division will rest on Wall street and the other on Fair street, and promptly at 5 o'clock three taps will be sounded and the parade will move.

State Troopers to Assist

Captain Fox of the State Troopers has planned to have 22 of his men to assist, both in the parade and handling traffic along the line of march.

The parade makes its first halt at the town line of Rosendale where the Rosendale division joins the parade and then moves on to New Paltz where the New Paltz division falls into line and after passing through New Paltz the parade returns over the same route to this city.

Many Cars and Floats

The parade committee expect that there will be enough cars and floats in the parade to make it a noteworthy one, and every one desiring to take part in the parade is urged to get in touch with the parade committee.

Light Up for Parade

By the time the parade proceeds to New Paltz and returns to parade through the city streets it will be dark and householders and mercantile houses along the line of march are urged to have their stores and homes lighted up for the occasion.

Members of Committee

The membership of the celebration committee follows:

Honorary chairman, Mayor C. J. Heiselman.

Chairman, Morris Samter.

Parade committee: Fire Chief Murphy, chairman; Ed. Huben, Rosendale; D. V. Z. Bogert, New Paltz; Chief Wood; Capt. Fox, State Troopers; A. H. Chambers, Judge Culloton.

Proclamations Issued

The following proclamations were issued:

Silas B. Roosa, mayor of the village of Rosendale, and Clifton E. Van Nostrand, supervisor, have issued proclamations asking the residents of that village to participate in the celebration on September 20 marking the formal opening of the Boulevard. The proclamations are as follows:

Mayor's Proclamation

To the Citizens of Rosendale Village:

As Mayor of the Village of Rosendale, I take pleasure in proclaiming Thursday, September 20th, a day of celebration to commemorate the official opening of the New Paltz-Rosendale-Kingston road.

Our village will join with Kingston and New Paltz in this celebration, and I urge that our citizens participate by decorating their homes and places of business; by entering decorated trucks, floats or private cars in the auto parade and by attending the reception and entertainment to be given in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium immediately following the conclusion of the parade.

This new road re-establishes the link with the county seat, and again re-opens to our people the finest facilities for transportation.

The line of parade forms on the old road, Rosendale Heights, at 5:15 p. m. Obtain an official Rosendale emblem by registering your car at once.

Given under my hand this 12th day of September, 1934.

SILAS B. ROOSA,
Mayor.

Supervisor's Proclamation

To the Citizens of the Town of Rosendale:

Rosendale, New Paltz and Kingston are planning an appropriate celebration to mark the opening of the new concrete highway from Kingston through Rosendale to New Paltz. An automobile parade, starting from Kingston at 5:00 p. m. will proceed through Rosendale and New Paltz, terminating at Kingston with a reception and entertainment.

As Supervisor of the Town of Rosendale, I urge that our citizens participate in the celebration by decorating their homes; by entering their cars in the parade, and by attending the reception at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium.

This road is of the greatest benefit to all communities of our town and the ceremonies marking its opening justify our fullest cooperation.

I therefore proclaim Thursday, September 20, 1934, a day of celebration for the citizens of the town, and particularly request that employers declare an early closing, in order that their employes may take an active part in the dedication program.

Given under my hand this 12th day of September, 1934.

CLIFTON E. VAN NOSTRAND, Supervisor.

Animals With Vertebrae

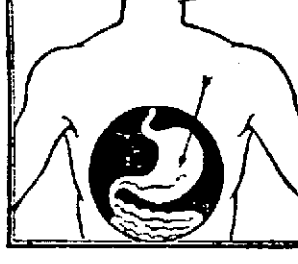

Animals with vertebrae never have more than four legs.

Why Even City Children are Menaced by Worms

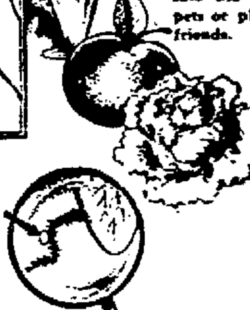

[Round-Worms or Stomach Worms]

. . . How city children catch the infection; how Worms make children pale, dull, or cross; why modern diet encourages the danger; why even adults suffer; why symptoms are misunderstood.

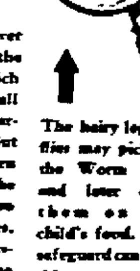

Full-grown Stomach Worms are here shown in their proportionate size (15 inches). Scores of them are often found in one person's system. When tangled into knots they may cause serious trouble and discomfort.

Dogs and cats play in the soil and grass where the tiny, unseen Worm eggs may have been scattered by the millions. The eggs stick to the fur or jaws of the animal, from where they are easily carried into the child's mouth when he pets or plays with his four-footed friends.

Drinking water, fruit and leafy vegetables, such as lettuce, cabbage and spinach, may carry the tiny Worm eggs to the child's stomach, even in spite of careful washing.

The hairy legs of flies may pick up the Worm eggs and later drop them on the child's food. No safeguard can stop this menace.

WISE country mothers are ever on their guard against the common Stomach Worm, which continues to persist in spite of all modern safeguards, plumbing, garbage disposal and hygiene. But city mothers are amazed to learn that Worms are plentiful in the city, too. There are only too many signs of them — pale faces, thin bodies, poor appetites, crossness and irritability, constant nose picking, fidgeting, bad dreams, grinding of teeth in sleep, or vomiting. Any one of these signs may mean WORMS!

U. S. Government Bulletin No. 286 shows that out of 2,000 school children examined, as many as 49 out of 100 in some schools had worms. No child is 100% safe. If in doubt, have your child's stools examined by a laboratory—or give the child Jayne's Vermifuge, for 104 years the first thought of millions of mothers who have learned to recognize the signs and know just what to do. Your child may be undernourished—he may be constipated—but then again he may have WORMS. Ask your druggist for the PLEASANT Vermifuge in the largest bottle for the money—

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

HANDSOME, HAPPY CHICOREE

"DID you ever see a happier fellow than my cousin, Chicoree?" demanded Linnet the Purple Finch of Peter Rabbit, as they watched Chicoree coming toward them. "I'll venture to say that he has been having such a good time that he hasn't even thought of building a nest, and here half the people in the Old Orchard have grown families. I've got a nest and eggs myself, but that madcap is just roaming about having a good time. Isn't that so, Chicoree?"

"Isn't what so?" demanded Chicoree, perching very near to where Linnet was sitting.

"Quite True, but What of It?" Said Chicoree.

"Isn't it true that you haven't even begun thinking about a nest?" demanded Linnet.

"Quite true, but what of it?" said Chicoree. "There's time enough to think about nest-building and household cares later. Meanwhile Mrs. Goldfinch and I are making the most of this beautiful season to roam about and have a good time. For one thing, we like thistledown to line our nests, and there isn't any thistledown yet. Then there is no sense in raising a family until there is plenty of the right kind of food and you know we Goldfinches are mostly onlseed. Just as soon as the children are big enough to hunt their own food they need seeds, so there is no sense in trying to raise a family until they can find plenty of seeds when needed. How do you like my summer suit, Peter?"

Chicoree cocked his head on one side the better to show off that black cap. The rest of his head and his whole body were bright yellow. His wings were black with two white bars on each. His tail also was black with some white on it. In size he was a trifle smaller than Linnet and altogether one of the smartest dressed of all the little people who wear feathers. It was a joy just to look at him. If Peter had known anything about canaries, which of coure he didn't, because canaries are always kept in cages, he would have understood how Chicoree is often called the Wild Canary.

"I suppose," said Peter, "it sounds foolish of me to ask if you are a member of the same family as Linnet."

"Very foolish, Peter, very foolish," laughed Chicoree. "We belong to the same family, and a mighty fine family it is. Now I must go over to the Old Pasture to see how the thistles are coming on."

Away he flew, calling "Chic-o-ree, per-chic-o-ree, chic-o-ree!" As he flew he rose and fell in the air in much the same way Yellow-Wing the Flicker does.

Steel Union Labor Hope "To Get" U. S. Corp.

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—Steel union labor hopes soon to bring the United States Steel Corporation—the giant company which has fought unionization for decades—into the fold of firms recognizing an "outside" union.

An "outside" union—such as those belonging to the American Federation of Labor—is contrasted with "company" unions—those formed within one concern.

High officials in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin workers, the steel union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, see the test in their complaint against the Carnegie Steel Company, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel.

The steel labor relations board is to hold a hearing in Pittsburgh the first week in October on the complaint that the company refused to bargain with a union committee as such at its McDonald, Ohio, plant. A petition from the union to conduct an election at the plant also is before the board for hearing at the same time.

If recognition is won at McDonald, the union believes that the company will bargain with union committees, as such, at all its plants where the union can show it represents the employes.

The union feels it has won recognition from the other two largest steel companies.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has agreed, union officials say, to deal with a union committee at its Sparrows Point plant near Baltimore and the Republic Steel Corporation to meet a union committee at Warren, Ohio.

The union men say these agreements presage a general policy in those companies of meeting the union representatives as such.

Mohican Store to Note Its 30th Anniversary

The Mohican Market on John street will observe the 38th anniversary of the organization of the chain of stores beginning Saturday of this week and continuing all next week.

Manager Trowbridge is making plans for a birthday sale during the anniversary week. Each year the week of the anniversary is observed with a big sale of merchandise and this year special effort will be made to give the shoppers of Kingston extra values. The Mohican stores which came into being 38 years ago, are to be found in many of the larger eastern cities and Kingston has been represented on that list for many years.

The first Mohican Market was located on Wall street where the Flanagan Clothing store is now located. That store was destroyed by a big fire which wiped out the upper end of Wall street and several buildings on North Front street one cold winter night. Later the store was located on Wall street below John street where McCabe's Tap Room and Grill is now. Several years ago, increased business made necessary larger quarters and the present store building on John street, opposite the public parking grounds, was erected specially for the Mohican Company. In the Mohican market now is contained a complete grocery store, meat market, fish and sea food market, dairy and egg department, fruits and vegetables and a modern bakery department which has recently been enlarged and improved by the installation of modern ovens of larger capacity.

Mother's Cook Book

UNUSUAL DISHES

WE ALL like to serve occasionally something a bit different and out of the ordinary, but for the daily diet the common foods simply served we enjoy the best.

Golden Coconut Shortcake.

Allow two slices of sponge cake for each serving. Prepare orange sauce by using one cupful of orange juice thickened with corn starch, adding a bit of sugar and butter. Cover each slice of the cake with the sauce in sandwich fashion, cover with thinly sliced oranges and top with freshly grated and sweetened coconut.

Stuffed Tomato Salad.

Scoop out the centers of six ripe even sized tomatoes. Chop the centers and add one cupful of cooked rice, one-half cupful of diced celery, four tablespoonfuls of cheese grated, one hard cooked egg, two tablespoonfuls of pimiento and one small onion, all minced; season with salt, a little lemon juice and any other desired seasoning. Fill the tomato cups and chill. Serve on lettuce with salad dressing.

Pot of Gold Dessert.

Mix one-half cupful of sugar with one-fourth cupful of cornstarch, add a bit of salt and a cupful of rich milk, one cupful of orange juice and when cooked until smooth and thick in a double boiler add two tablespoonfuls of butter and the well beaten yolks of two eggs. Let cook until smooth. Serve molded in individual molds, with whipped cream.

Maple Junket.

Dissolve one junket tablet in a tablespoonful of cold water, add to a pint of lukewarm milk, a little almond flavoring and a half cupful of maple sirup. Serve with the top of the sherbet glasses sprinkled with grated maple sugar or sprinkled with finely shredded almonds.

Dutch Guiana Once Was Closely Related to U. S.

Surinam, or Dutch Guiana as it is usually called, was very closely related to the United States in one period of the latter's history, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune. At the Treaty of Breda, 1667, the British ceded Surinam to the government of the Netherlands as a partial payment for having seized New Netherland from the Dutch a few years before. Had this exchange not been made, and had the Dutch been confirmed by treaty in their possession of what is now New York, the United States might never have existed, since the most active agitators for a separation from England would have been divided by a foreign territory.

New England would have been quickly subdued, and the other colonies intimidated. The map of America might still show the Spanish colonies of Florida, Mexico, Texas, and California; the French in possession of the Mississippi valley, and the British as far south as the Columbia river on the Pacific coast. Perhaps, therefore, the United States may be grateful that there was an English claim to territory in Guiana, which could be traded to the Dutch for her claim on New York.

New Comfort for Those Who Wear False Teeth

No longer need you feel uncomfortable wearing false teeth. Fasteeth, a greatly improved powder sprinkled on your plates holds them tight and comfortable. No gummy, pasty taste or feeling. Deodorizes, etc. Fasteeth at Whelan's or your druggist. Three sizes.—Adv.

LYONSVILLE.

Lyonsville, Sept. 13.—The picnic held on the Lyonsville Reformed Church grounds on Labor Day, September 3, was a success both socially and financially, the net amount cleared was $52.24. Thanks are extended to everyone who helped make this picnic a success.

The school is progressing nicely with Miss Elizabeth Holt as teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. George Young and daughter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Barley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Barley.

Church services will be held Sunday afternoon, September 16, at 2.15, conducted by the Rev. T. E. Braithwaite.

The flower show was notable for its quality rather than quantity and for the especially artistic arrangement of flowers whether in baskets vases or miniature landscaping as well as for the carefully planned color juxtaposition.

Even before one entered the parish house, one came on a very lovely landscape garden snuggled in against the protecting stone walls of the church. Cedar trees, some laden with berries, formed a background and lesser foliage and autumn fruited plants of the Solomon Seal with its cluster of red berries, ferns and some crimson leafed foliage were massed between the taller trees and the low, mossy growth skirting a tiny pool in which swam gold fish right into the lavender and green shadows of a water hyacinth. A fallen branch of white birch with tinted toad stools reached from the water's edge at the front to a rocky island in the pool. All about on the mossy and deep brown earth were vivid splashes of orange colored, deep or paler yellow, delicate mauve with deeper purple underneath, toad stools and there were clumps of ghost-like Ditchman's Pipes, ferns and a vivid note of scarlet in the clustered berries of the Jack in the Pulpit. This professional exhibit by Mr. King, won first, second and third prize for scenic beauty.

Stepping into the hall the first display to attract immediate attention was the magnificent dahlia exhibit by Walter Osterhoudt, professional. A very tall basket, harmonizing pottery vases, the artistic use of silver cloth and dull linen and blue fabric enhanced the exhibit which contained some specimens beatiful in color, texture and size. The large basket containing mammoth blooms of sunset tints (City of Clarksburg) occupied the center of the exhibit. Tall vases of dull blue pottery held Jean Trimby purple blooms, Indiana Moon Dahlias—large—of rich autumn tints, delicate pink or deep cream colored flowers. One rare bloom was a large, exquisite imported English Royal White bloom of perfect form and texture. In fact there were many other beautiful specimens of English importation. In the immediate foreground were three low, glass bowls of miniature dahlias, white, crimson and scarlet that were lovely. A single royal purple velvet bloom caused enthsiastic comment. Mr. Ostrander took four blue ribbon prizes.

At the opposite end of the hall was the special gladioli exhibit of Mr. Polinsky, another professional exhibitor. The background of this exhibition was in the form of a threefold church window. One held a pottery vase of Ave Maria blue gladioli, the center Picardy shrimp-pink with begonia centers and the third deep crimson Commander Koehl blooms. Among the many, many baskets of perfect gladioli the outstanding ones were Marmora Orchid, Lavender Berty Snow and Mother Machree, smoky lavender. Mr. Polinsky had several single stalks of rare blooms, winning in all seven blue ribbons.

Among the quantities of lovely flowers artistically arranged on tables and steps around the hall were two wonderful little portable rock gardens, with paths, a pool, trees, miniature mountain, flowering plants in miniature, in fact all that goes to make up a most attractive rock garden. There was also a perfect little model of the summer camp in the Adirondack mountains of Robert Williams, organist of St. John's Church, surrounded by trees and rocky boulders. It was made by Arthur Hazenbush.

Zinnias of richest hue, tiny and immense blooms, rarely lovely asters, petunias, marigolds and countless other blooms as well as potted plants afforded a picture of rare beauty everywhere.

The many guests rested after strolling about the flower exhibit by going upstairs and enjoying afternoon tea served by Mrs. Elston, Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Elliott Wight and Mrs. Pinkney in a room where the "Still Life" exhibits were. One resembled a small oratory or altar with flowers, candles, crucifix, painting and a hymn book dated 1740. Society Notes

To Entertain Graduates

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital will entertain the 1934 graduating class of the hospital at a luncheon and bridge, to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday, September 17, at 1:30. Anyone wishing to attend may call Mrs. Edward Loughran, president of the Auxiliary, telephone 1456, or Mrs. Mary Campbell, [illegible], not later than Friday evening.

A delightful surprise shower was given recently by Miss Genevieve Davis of 174 Washington avenue in honor of her sister, Mrs. Andrew Geyer. The room was decorated with autumn flowers and refreshments were served at a late hour. Those present were: The Misses Dorothy Davis, Marion Grana, Alice Coe, Audrey Davis, Genevieve Davis, Edna Buchanan, Mrs. Roy Weber, Mrs. Joseph Kearney, Mrs. Melvin Steen, Mrs. Charles Davis, Mrs. Ethel Hull, Mrs. James Madison, Mrs. Rodney Binch, Mrs. Gerald Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davis. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts. Mrs. Geyer was formerly Edith Davis.

75th Birthday Celebration.

Port Ewen, Sept. 13.—The Amaco Tea Room on South Broadway, Port Ewen, was the scene of a very pretty autumn birthday party given by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Sickler, Sr., in honor of Mrs. Martha Robinson of 42 Fair street, Kingston, her age being 75 years. The table was set with a wonderful repast. In the center was a large birthday cake, all white icing, and decorated in pink, saying "Happy Birthday," and on both sides of the table were two large vases of mixed fall flowers. At the close of the meal ice cream, cake and candy were served. Covers were laid for 10 couples, including friends from out of town. All departed wishing Mrs. Robinson many more birthdays.

Carr-Dwyer

Miss Cornelia Margaret Dwyer, of 1811 Albemarle Road, Brooklyn, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis Dwyer, was married Wednesday afternoon to Dr. Frederic G. Carr, of this city. The wedding took place in the Tudor room of the Hotel Lombardy, New York, the Rev. Father John Hickey officiating. A large reception and dinner followed. Miss Lucille E. Niemeyer, of East Orange, N. J., was maid of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Reynolds B. Carr, of Kingston; Miss Margaret McCaffery, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Wilfred B. Penny, of Rochester, and Miss Kathryn Rebholz, of Forest Hills, Queens. Reynolds B. Carr was best man for his brother. The ushers were Dr. Rudolph Bachmann, of Fitchburg, Mass.; Dr. William Heeks, of New York city, and Vincent A. Carr and Joseph Forman, of Kingston. After a motor trip in the South, Dr. and Mrs. Carr will reside in Kingston. The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy, Brentwood, L. I., and Mount St. Mary's, Plainfield, N. J., and attended the Finch School, New York city. Dr. Carr received his A. B. and B. S. degrees at Tufts College and is a graduate of Cornell Medical College. He served his interneship at St. Luke's Hospital, New York.

SHANDAKEN

Shandaken, Sept. 13—Mrs. C. E. Wood and Mrs. E. J. Grattan called on Mrs. Harold Brown, Peck Hollow, on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Bernesser and family have gone to New York for a stay of eight or ten days.

Mrs. F. M. Cleaveland returned to her home on Sunday from the Benedictine Hospital, Kingston.

Mrs. Charles N. Wheaton and son, Warren, returned to New York on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood and Mrs. E. J. Grattan were Kingston visitors on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Deyo of Poughkeepsie called on Mrs. F. M. Cleaveland and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Osterhoudt and daughter visited Mrs. Osterhoudt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Churchill, Highland, on Sunday.

The Home Bureau held its September rally picnic in Osterhoudt's orchard Wednesday. It was not very well attended because some were ill and others were too busy to leave their home duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Frey and son, Danny, of Chittenango, N. Y., are visiting at Miss Elizabeth Frey's cottage on the hill.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ford, accompanied by Mrs. C. E. Wood, made a trip to Kingston on Wednesday.

Anton Otto Fischer, noted artist for the Saturday Evening Post and other periodicals, who has a summer home in Bushnellville, has just arrived from Europe, where he has been spending some time this summer.

Russel Miller, who is employed at Lake Mohonk, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Miller, on Sunday.

Local Death Record

Funeral services for John Roy of Goldrick's Landing, who died Monday at the Benedictine Hospital, were held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Fair street. The services were in charge of the Rev. Mr. Washington of East Kingston. Interment was in Mt. Zion Cemetery.

The funeral of Beverly Dougherty was held at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Cornelia Dougherty, 35 Cedar street, this afternoon with the Rev. Arthur S. Cole of the Albany avenue Baptist Church in charge. The home was filled with her many schoolmates and friends. Flowers all but covered the casket. Burial was in Montrepose cemetery.

The funeral of James E. Leverich, Sr., was held from his late home, 19 Lindsley avenue, Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m., the Rev. H. E. Coleman, pastor of the Ponckhockie Congregational Church officiating. It was largely attended and floral offerings were profuse and beautiful. Interment was in Montrepose cemetery. Bearers were John Heppner, Harry Richter, Joseph Disch, and Marshall Miller.

John K. Burton, aged 62 years, died suddenly at his summer home, New Paltz, Monday, September 10. Mr. Burton was a senior partner of Burton & Fenton, a building firm, and lived at Mt. Vernon. He was a member of the examining board of engineers for 34 years at Mt. Vernon and was an associate of Farnsworth Post, G. A. R. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jessie Burton, a son, David, and two daughters, Mrs. John A. Roberts and Mrs. Adolph C. Frank.

Highland, Sept. 13—Funeral services for Harry Elliott were held Wednesday afternoon in the Methodist Church and were conducted by the Rev. D. S. Haynes of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Haynes is a member of the hose company. The bearers were Elmer Smith, Hobart Kurtz, Ralph Dirk, Elton Tompkins, Fred Decker, John Parks, all members of the fire department. Interment was in the Lloyd cemetery. Mr. Elliott leaves his wife, Mrs. Hattie Mae Roe Elliott, three daughters, Mrs. Alvin Stiller, Miss Dora Elliott, Mrs. William Sutton all of Highland; two grandchildren; his mother, Mrs. Dora Elliott of New Paltz, three brothers, William Elliott of Poughkeepsie, Thomas and Chauncey Elliott of New Paltz. There were many flowers.

The funeral of Mrs. Paul Becker, who died Monday, was held from her late residence, 48 Hoffman street, this morning at 8:30 and at St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock where a requiem Mass was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Benjamin C. Roth. Wednesday evening the Rosary Society of St. Mary's Church of which the deceased had long been a member, visited the home and recited the Rosary and also attended the funeral in a body. The Rev. James P. Moore also called at the home and with a large number of relatives and friends recited hte Rosary. The large number of floral offerings which completely banked the casket together with the spiritual bouquets bespoke in a silent manner the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The bearers were John Cramer, Thomas Tierney, James and Louis Becker, Michael Larkin and Robert Williams.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Sept. 13—Mrs. Clemie Stokes recently visited her sister, Mrs. Kniffin, of New Paltz.

Mrs. Watson, who has been spending the summer with Mrs. Mary McArdle and also visiting friends and relatives in this place, returned to her home in New York on Sunday, when relatives from there motored up for her.

Mrs. Lucy has been visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Howard Swindon and daughter of Walden motored up one afternoon and took Miss Jessie Snyder for a drive up to Stone Ridge, where they visited the Shoppe in the Garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davidson of Woodcliff, N. J., and his sister, Miss Davidson, of New York city, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kasper.

The Misses Kathryn Steen and Ruth DuMond and Charles Neff entered New Paltz Normal this fall. Miss Elizabeth DuMond returned to Kingston High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Church motored to New Paltz to hear the Rev. L. J. Shaffer preach. The Rev. William Shaffer was here during the time of the water works and assisted the Rev. H. W. Noble, who was then pastor of the High Falls Reformed and The Clove. The Rev. Mr. Shaffer had charge of the colored mission and made many friends in this place during his shoort stay. Everyone is sorry to hear that he has to return to Japan, without his family, on account of the health of one of his children, who is now at Saranac with his wife.

Miss Stokes did not win out in the spelling contest at Syracuse but she did fine work and her teacher, Mrs. Church, is proud of her as are also her relatives and friends. She entered Kingston High this fall and let us hope she may be as successful in her school work as she was in the spelling contest.

Mrs. Mary Delamater, who has been under the care of Dr. Shea, is better.

Marvin Van Wagenen and Lester Stokes have been doing some mowing for John H. Ayres.

John B. Synder and family of Kingston were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Snyder for supper on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Merwin called on friends in town on Sunday. Mr. Merwin was in charge of the railroad station here during the time of the B. W. S.

Herman S. Sutton and son, Harold, of Westwood, N. J., called on his cousins, Mrs. L. W. Krom and Mrs. Thomas Snyder, on Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Oscar Church and Mrs. Thomas Snyder attended a meeting of the Women's Missionary Society at New Paltz on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Church was the classical visitor.

The Jewish holiday services on Monday and Tuesday of this week were held in the rooms of Sam May.

Mrs. Clarence Howard substituted for Miss Sara Feinberg on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ayres of Briarcliff Manor motored up on Sunday, taking dinner with a cousin at New Paltz and in the afternoon they called on his father, John H. Ayers. They returned home by way of Kerhonkson, where they stopped off to call on relatives, so they put in full day and a most pleasant one.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD NEWSPAPER?

IS IT SIZE? IS IT CIRCULATION? IS IT NEWS? IS IT ADVERTISING? WE THINK IT IS SERVICE

MAYBE you picked up your Daily Freeman today just to find out all about the big ball game. Maybe you are one of those who dive through five or six pages to learn how to bake a deep dish cherry pie. Perhaps you're a seasoned "editorial pager" . . . or one of the thousands who can't wait to find out what "Barbara" is doing . . . or maybe you side-track everything else in favor of the ads—and you'd be surprised how many do!

We don't know what part of the Daily Freeman gets your first choice. But you can feel sure—and if you are an old Freeman reader you'll know without our telling you—that the part of the paper you like best is planned, written and edited with the same care it would get if it were the only part of the paper and you were the only reader we had to please.

The Daily Freman is vitally concerned in serving you and your desires—and will be as long as you live in Kingston.

ACROSS THE WORLD OR NEXT DOOR...

News items in the Daily Freeman give facts, not opinions. They are meaty but concise. They are written with an eye to human interest. But they are seldom deliberately sensational—if we slip occasionally it is because reporters are human.

People like to read about people and so we write about people. There is an astonishing amount of news in The Freeman about the doings of folks you know. Full wire service brings you the events of all the world—Not a boiled-down rehash, but the whole story, clear and complete.

A visit to our editorial rooms won't show you the smoky, noisy "city desk" of the movies. But it will acquaint you with the headquarters of a smooth-working, efficient news-gathering organization.

THE FREEMAN IS DELIVERED OUT OF TOWN TO VACATIONISTS

Ever gone away for a week or a month? How your eye grabs for a home-town dateline! But Freeman readers need not depend on stray information for news of things back home. The Daily Freeman can put on its traveling clothes, too! Many copies joined readers on their summer outings last week. They didn't have to skip a single episode in the comic strips.

IF YOU'RE GOING ON VACATION

Just call 2200 and leave us your forwarding address. You won't miss a single issue.

SOMETHING NEW? OF COURSE...

Mrs. Crummit is showing off her new sports jacket. Or it may be a new-fangled tea cart . . . or a swell picture of Junior at $2.85 the dozen. We don't know for sure because the photographer didn't tell us and the lady has her shoulder in the way. But Mrs. Crummit is doubly pleased. There's not the hint of a bothered budget to trouble her. Something in her expression says she found it in the advertising pages of the Daily Freeman.

Did she save money? Of course! But that's nothing new for a veteran ad-shopper like Mary Crummit. She has saved more than her allowance. Time, shoe-leather and the disposition her husband's forever bragging about. Stole a march on her neighbors, too. (Not all of them — there are quite a few Freeman ad-readers on the Crummit's street!)

YANKS 5—WHITESOX 0

When realities get a bit tiresome or terrifying there's always The Freeman Sports Page to turn to. Did the home-town warriors trim 'em again? What's So-and-So's average? What about this new horse folks are talking about? What is State going to do this fall? When are the Sox coming out of the cellar? The Daily Freeman gives you all the answers with plenty of pictures to make matters clear. The stories are written by real aces who know your sports heroes and their foibles and can write about them entertainingly.

INDOOR SPORTS, TOO!

Freeman sports aren't all for the fans who haunt the bleachers, ring-side and paddock. Parlor pastimes have their innings, too.

FAMILY FEUD

Sorry, Mr. Brickley! We shall either have to quit printing the comics on the other side of the financial news or you will have to go out and buy another Freeman for Junior. Better take your copy with you when you do because the Mrs. is sitting with eagle-eye, just waiting to grab the paper herself. Comes of being a friend of all the family . . . you sometimes make them enemies!

HELPING THE ADVERTISERS MAKE NEWS!

You don't have to tell us that So-and-So's Sale of Dresses is news! The ad came in late but it's not going to miss the tiniest part of an edition in spite of the fact that we had to make the layout and pick him out some swell illustrations from our Meyer Both ad service files. The fuss our printers make about that ad would turn the city desk green with envy! Is she plated up and on the press? Right, Bill! Start 'em rolling!

CENTRAL 2200

It's hard to cry about a lost dog when you hear Miss Robinson's cheerful voice at the other end of the wire. But then she can afford to smile. She knows your Daily Freeman Want Ad will find Frisker for you before you're a day older. Want to hire a maid, sell a car, swap a fiddle? Remember the Daily Freeman will do it — and with fewer words.

[illegible] Baker and Ky Embree were [illegible] Embree [illegible] eight hits, walked two and fanned three but was the victim of loose fielding and poor strategy [illegible] his teammates. Baker [illegible] down the Minasians with seven hits, but six bases on balls had him in hot water throughout the game.

Umpire Bill Schwab called an end to the struggle with one down in the last half of the fifth, after an injury to Bill Thomas had delayed the game.

Embree, who had been turned back with the bases loaded in the second frame, opened the fruitful fifth with a walk and Tommy Lamb was inserted as a pinch runner. Lamb has been caught napping the previous inning but hung close this time and raced home on Al Short's triple to deep left center. Short reached home when Stumph allowed Dawkin's relay to slide through his legs.

With the score tied 6-6, Pete Proctor, Fruiteer first sacker, got a base on balls with a count of 3-2. He stole second, reached third on a passed ball and scored by an eyelash when DeCicco grounded to Messinger. DeCicco continued on to second but Clarke's good throw nailed him. Bill Thomas was hurt as DeCicco came hurdling into the base and by the time he had recovered it was too dark to continue.

A base on balls to Stumph, a fielder's choice and singles by Joyce and Knight gave the Milkmen two runs in the first frame. The Fruiteers retaliated with a brace of tallies as the result of singles by Tommy Lamb and Al Short, a walk to Purvis and a passed ball.

Stumph's two bagger to right field, followed by Joyce's single after two down in the second, gave the Milkmen a 3-2 lead but successive singles by Minasian and DeCicco, followed by two walks and an infield out, enabled the Fruiteers to knot the count 3-3 in their half of the second.

Three successive hits had Embree hanging on the ropes in the fourth but he managed to check the outburst after three runs were scored. Messinger opened with a double to left and scored on Clark's liner over second. Baker's single and a fielder's choice put Clarke on third from whence he scored, eluding the entire Minasian infield after being trapped between third and home. The third run was scored when Joyce beat Proctor's relay to the plate after the latter had completed a double play.

Eddie Minasian and Paul Joyce were the leading stickers of the abbreviated argument. Joyce rapped two singles the first two times up while Minasian cracked a double and single for the Fruiteers.

The second game of the series is scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock sharp at the Athletic Field. Ky Embree and Al Short will form the Fruiteer battery with Emil Bock or Zip Geisler pitching for the Milkmen and Clarke catching.

Stone Ridge to Play At Napanoch Sunday

Sunday the Stone Ridge A. C. will travel to Napanoch to play the Grahams. Dewey Van Buren and Jack Robins will form the Stone Ridge Battery. Wilson and Wyncoop will work for Napanoch.

The Napanoch Club holds wins over such clubs as the Kaslich A. C., Hercules, Hurons and the Wallkill Prison. A number of Stone Ridge fans are expected to make the trip as this is one of the Ridgers' hardest games of the season.

THE Sportlight BY GRANTLAND RICE

THE BABE

There is a rare possibility that the next generation will see a greater ball player than George Herman Ruth, the little-boy-who-made-good from St. Mary's Industrial School in Baltimore. The fans of Honus Wagner's day and Ty Cobb's felt as many a ball fan feels right now about Ruth. There can't be anyone like him in the years to come. But somehow there always is.

For five years sports writers have been digging up the Babe's obituary for September release, and each succeeding spring the Bam has returned to the Yankee line-up one of the most dangerous batsmen in the league. This year, however, after five seasons with the Boston Red Sox and fifteen with the New Yorks, the Sultan of Swat, the hero of a million kids, and the greatest drawing card in the history of his profession, has admitted he is through as a regular.

He never lost a World Series game as a Boston pitcher. Fact is, he was regarded as the about left-hander of his time.

A home-run hitter whose slugging percentage one season (1921) was .847, he nevertheless batted .393 for a full season (1923) and his lifetime mark is about .351.

He won the longest World Series game on October 9, 1916, when Boston beat Brooklyn 2 to 1. It went fourteen innings and so did the Babe's southpawing.

He played seven times with a world's championship club.

He played in ten World Series.

His World Series batting average was .326. In 1928 he hit .625 in the classic.

He has hit fifteen homers in series games, stolen four bases, and come to the bat 129 times in the big autumn show.

He has hit for a total of twelve bases twice in World Series games in 1926 and 1928.

He holds the highest batting percentage in either league for one series.

He and Earl Combs, the injured one, each has scored four runs in a series clash, the record.

The Babe has hit most home runs in a season, 60 in 1927, of which 32 were on the road.

He has more total bases to his credit than any other player.

From 1919 to 1934, with the exception of 1925, he hit 100 or more extra base wallops.

He has, as everybody knows, slammed the ball either into the stands or out of the park more than 700 times in his major league career. Most ball players do well to get 700 hits before they are through.

He has hit the most home runs in five consecutive games. On June 10, 1921, he drove the ball over the fence. He repeated this performance on June 11, 12, 13 (twice) and 14 (two more.) and in that season he hit 59 homers and pitched two games for the Yanks. He won them both.

More than half of his tremendous clouts have been made in Yankee Stadium, which was built with money the customers shelled out to see Babe Ruth bat balls far and high.

He has earned a great deal more than a million dollars. Most of it, they say, is salted away in annuities.

The Babe never misses a big prize fight and goes to almost all the hockey games when he is in town in the winter.

He and Sammy Byrd, the Yank who has understudied him for so long, play some of the best amateur golf in the world. The Bam is consistently in the 70's.

Oh, well, we could go on for columns and never penetrate the real greatness of the top-heavy fellow who ambles out to right field, ambles back, touches second, hitches up his pants and then smashes the first pitch right back where he came from. He is unquestionably the most colorful player that ever lived, and he is about the only popular Yankee idol outside of Lindbergh whose name means anything abroad.

The other day in New York a couple of thousand school kids were let in free and they were pretty downhearted when, with the game well along, the score was 2 to 1 in favor of the White Sox. The Babe had been ailing for about a week and had not put in an appearance that day despite an almost continuous chant, "We Want Ruth!" from the undergraduate section.

Hoag and Jorgens were on base. McCarthy needed a pinch hitter. "We Want Ruth!" the kids shouted, and McCarthy called on the Bam. He selected a big bat, trudged to the plate, looked over a couple and then socked the ball so far to right field that both runners scored. You won't tell those kids anything about George Herman Ruth.

LITTLE MAN MICKEY'S PUZZLE

Giants Nose Out Pirates; Are All Set For Four Game Cardinal Series

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The Giants today faced another important series in the battle for their second straight National League pennant — a four-game struggle with the second place Cardinals—and they hoped it would be the last time they had to bear down until the time comes to do it before the flag-decked World Series stands.

With a lead of 5½ games to start the fray as the result of New York's 3 to 2 triumph over the Pirates while the Cards suffered a 3-1 setback in Philadelphia, the Giants needed only to conquer the Dean brothers' jinx again to settle the campaign.

The third-place Cubs kept pace seven games behind the Giants with a 5 to 2 triumph over the Braves behind Lonnie Warneke, who won his 21st game of the season.

The Tigers saw their American League cut to 3½ games over the idle Yankees as Rube Walberg held them scoreless to give the Red Sox a 1 to 0 triumph.

The Indians took a 3 to 2 decision from the Athletics by piling up an early lead that survived the effects of Johnny Marcum's pinch homer in the seventh. The other four American League Clubs had an open date.

The remaining National League game gave the Dodgers an 8 to 7 decision over the Reds in a ten-inning scrap.

Seven brothers married seven sisters the other day. When family rows begin to follow the seven honeymoons there's going to be plenty chance to obey the scriptural injunction about forgiving seventy times seven.

Soft Ball Banquet Plans Are Completed

Representatives of the churches in the Federated Men's Clubs organization met at the Y. M. C. A. last evening and made final arrangements for their soft baseball banquet to be held September 21 at 6 [illegible].

Menus were proposed by several churches wanting the banquet and there being so little to choose between them all that a [illegible] ballot was taken and the menu of [illegible] the Comforter was drawn. This deciding the place at which [illegible] banquet.

The menu accepted is as follows: Chicken pie, mashed potatoes with gravy, succotash, sliced tomatoes, celery, jelly, wheat and rye bread, ice cream and coffee. The dinner will be held in the large dining room on the lower floor and the presentation [illegible] in the main auditorium of the Church of the Comforter Hall upstairs.

Tickets for this season ending affair will be ready Friday afternoon and may be procured by the club representatives from Gordon Craig at the Main office of the Kingston Trust Co. or at Smith's Book Store, 304 Fair street.

A fine program of entertainment will be procured by the committee. Any suggestions will be gladly accepted by members of the committee, Warren Smith, chairman, and Messrs. Gray, Craig and Bailey.

Reports for the several clubs as to the number of guests must be made to Gordon Craig by Friday night, September 21, so that plenty of time may be given the committee before the banquet night.

The soft baseball league finished its season this week when the Elmendorf Presbyterians won the championship from the Port Ewen Methodists. Great enthusiasm has been aroused in this increasingly popular summer sport here in Kingston and vicinity. Next year's program will undoubtedly be much greater, not only from a sport angle but from a community sociability standpoint, which phase is one of the reasons for the forming of the Federated Men's Clubs of Kingston and vicinity.

Perry Defeats Allison in Five Sets To Take The National Title

Forest Hills, N. Y., [illegible] (AP)—The national singles tennis championships are over and [illegible] may take all it wants [illegible] at Forest Hills without worrying [illegible] Fred Perry has gone [illegible] and [illegible] with him the American [illegible].

The unfortunate [illegible] the American players [illegible] fairly definite fact that [illegible] will be back next year to satisfy [illegible] ambitions for three United States singles championships in a [illegible] record for foreigners [illegible] held by Rene La[coste] [illegible] and tied by Perry yesterday by [illegible] five set triumph over Wilmer Allison.

Perry wants permanent possession of the big silver vase that goes with winning the trophy three times, something Big Bill Tilden did twice in a row from 1920 through 1925 but which no invader has ever accomplished.

"It's a pretty thing," said Perry yesterday after the cup was presented him following his 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 1-6, 8-6 victory over the second ranked American player. "I'd like to have that to keep."

[illegible]

The [illegible] deciding set Allison was just [illegible] to play [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible]. Allison [illegible] the premises but Perry [illegible] his steam up again at [illegible] the 13th and 14th games [illegible] the match.

Perry showed [illegible] signs of the strained tendon injury he suffered in [illegible] ankle beating Vernon G. Kirby of South Africa in the semi-final.

Perry, who is leaving immediately for Hollywood on the way to play in the Pacific Southwest championships, said he'd continue playing tennis until England [illegible] the Davis cup.

Thornhill Believes Team Has Even Chance of Repeating 1933 Success

Palo Alto, Calif., Sept. 13 (AP)—Claude Sarle "Tiny" Thornhill, who shapes the destiny of Stanford football, believes his 1934 team has "an even chance" to repeat its success of a year ago, namely to top the Pacific coast conference championship scramble and represent the west in the New Year's day Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena.

If "Tiny's" belief should materialize he would like nothing better than to send his charges against Lou Little's Columbia Lions again.

"They beat us last New Year all right but I think the next time would be a different story," says Thornhill.

The new lighter and more slender ball to be used universally this season has no friends in the Stanford camp.

"We tried it out three times a week for three months last spring" says Thornhill. "Our boys weren't kicking it any better than when they started. When it lands on the field it acts like a kite without a tail. Spiral passes always wobble."

"Unless the players pick up the knack of handling the new ball a lot quicker than I think they will, a lot of things should happen this fall."

Stanford will huddle as usual. Fifteen or sixteen basic plays will constitute the attack. Backfield men will do a slouchy shift occasionally. Thornhill has a few nifty new plays to spring on Northwestern here October 13.

Thumbnail History Of America's Cup

No. 16. Lipton's last challenge.

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—His fifth and last challenge for the elusive America's cup in 1930 resulted in utter failure for Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V against the sleek and swift Enterprise, which closed the series for that year with a record-smashing sail for a 30-mile triangular course in the fourth and final race.

The series marked the realization of the life-long ambition of Harold S. Vanderbilt to skipper a cup yacht and he more than proved his worth and fitness for the role by piloting the New York Yacht Club's defender to four straight triumphs.

Vanderbilt guided Enterprise to a slender victory over Shamrock by two minutes and 52 seconds in the first race, and widened the margin to more than nine minutes in the second, out-maneuvering the challenger at the start for a telling advantage.

Enterprise scored her third straight victory when Shamrock parted her main halyard five miles after the start on the 15-mile windward beat of the windward-leeward course. It was a costly mishap for Shamrock because she had gotten away to a good start and held a slender lead over enterprise at the time.

The defender made the cup safe for the United States for another year when she sailed the course in the final race in three hours, ten minutes and 13 seconds, setting a new record for a 30-mile triangular layout. The old record of 3:13:18 was made by Columbia in 1901 against Shamrock II.

Lipton's challenger covered the course in good time, finishing 5 minutes behind Enterprise in 3:15:20.

(Tomorrow—Recapitulation.)

Colonial League Held First Meeting

The Colonial Bowling League held it's first meeting Wednesday evening at the Colonials Alleys. Six teams were represented. They were Schultz and Bogart, Schryver Motors, Herzog's, American Oil Co., and L. S. Winne Co. There is room for two more teams as eight teams are desired to make up the loop.

There will be another meeting next Friday night at which time an election of officers will be held and plans for the schedule will be discussed.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Oakland, Calif.—Johnny Erjavic, 173, Minneapolis, knocked out Nash Garrison, 177, San Jose, Calif., (1). Paul Karch, 155, Portland, Ore., stopped Dick Foster, 152, Berkeley, Calif., (5).

San Francisco—John Henry Lewis, 180½, Phoenix, outpointed Norman Conrad, Wilton, N. H., (10).

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

The following quotations represent prices on sales by commission merchants and other original receivers on the New York city downtown wholesale district up to 8 a. m.

The market for celery was dull and weaker as supplies were more than ample to meet trade requirements. Offerings in the rough, washed, packed in two-thirds crates jobbed out at $1.50-$2; some fancy well blanched realized as high as $2.25, while inferior sold lower.

The market for upstate New York domestic white cabbage was dull and slightly weaker. Bulk consignments jobbed out at $18-$20 per ton. Sacked shipments worked out within the price range of 45c-60c for 50 pounds.

The demand for cucumbers was slow and values declined. Most of the upstate New York fancy cucumbers sold around $1.25 per bushel basket while the best dills brought $1.50-$1.75.

Supplies of state Big Boston lettuce and romaine were moderate. Trading was rather slow and the market ruled dull. Crates of two dozen heads sold mainly at 50c-75c.

Attractive quality spinach of the curly savoy variety when available sold steadily. Supplies were only moderate and the market ruled slightly stronger. The very best from upstate New York packed in eight bushel baskets or lettuce crates jobbed out at 75c.

Severe Storm Felt In Buffalo District

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP).—A toll of one dead and damage of thousands of dollars was surveyed today after one of the worst electrical storms in western New York this year.

Lightning which struck his shack at Albion, killed an itinerant worker known as "Davis." Papers in his pockets bore the name "John Wirt."

Large hailstones fell for 15 minutes late yesterday three miles northeast of Albion, inflicting heavy damage to all crops. Limbs and fruit were blown from trees west of Albion.

Lightning destroyed a barn belonging to Albert Sauer, near Hamburg, with an estimated loss of $5,000.

Power transformers about Buffalo were targets for lightning, giving emergency crews much work in keeping the city with power.

Poison Ivy and Poison Oak

Poison Ivy and poison oak are not the same, although the names are confused in some parts of the country. Since some forms of poison ivy do not climb, and some forms of poison oak do, it is hard to distinguish between them.

Where States Meet

At Harper's Ferry three states meet and the Shenandoah and Potomac rivers join. John Brown's raid on the United States arsenal in 1859 was in this town, and it was in a state of almost constant siege during the Civil war.

"The Sun Never Sets"

The germ of the idea of the sun never setting on the dominions of a particular ruler is found in Herodotus, Book 7, chapter 8. The boast was a common one with the Spaniards in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries and is frequently alluded to in the literature of other countries. It does not seem to be recorded who first used the expression, the sun never sets upon the British empire. John Wilson, who wrote under the pen name of Christopher North (1785-1854), in his Noctes Ambrosianae, number 20, April, 1829, says, "His majesty's dominions on which the sun never sets." This appears to be the first use of the expression in English literature.

Amateur Movies Of Rotary Boys' Club

Amateur movies showing the two trips made by the to West Point of the Rotary Boys' Club were shown the members and guests of the local Rotary organization as a program feature of yesterday's meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel. One of the films dealt with the trip last year and the other film gave a visual picture of this year's outing. Harry Edson, who is chairman of the boys' work committee of the Rotary Club, described the pictures as they were thrown upon the screen.

Miss Margaret Howe, formerly of Saugerties, favored the group with two vocal solos preceding the motion pictures. She was accompanied by Harry Dodge at the piano.

CRIMEAN COAST IS SOVIET PLAYGROUND

Former Watering Place of Imperial Russia.

Washington—The Crimean coast, playground of royalty, has become the most popular vacation land of Soviet Russia. It is the Soviet Riviera. Along the southeast coast high mountains slope steeply to the shores of the Black sea. Rough peaks of the Yaila dagh protect these shores from northern winds that sweep over the inland steppes. Sea breezes are warm and gentle, spring comes early, and flowers bloom perpetually.

"Many of the Crimean palaces of princes and grand dukes have been turned into sanatoriums and rest houses for Soviet workers," says the National Geographic Society. "They are supported by social insurance and public health funds, and are administered by the government.

"Livadia, favorite estate of Tsar Alexander III, has become a vast convalescent home. The magnificent white palace and its adjacent buildings accommodate 1,500 patients at a time. Workers from every part of the Union are sent for rest cures and special care. The shaded park, gardens, and terraces of the estate are on a hillside above Yalta, best known of Crimean resorts.

Hothouse of Moscow.

"Yalta with its broad promenade, wide bathing beach, and gay cafes was the most fashionable watering place of Imperial Russia. The sea baths, sun baths, and mud baths that attracted Petrograd nobility now are in even greater demand through the energetic Soviet campaign for public health. High mountains surround the resort on three sides, making it a favorite center for climbing—a Cannes and Chamonix combined.

"Leaving the cypress, magnolia, and mimosa of the coast, one climbs through luxuriant acres of fruit trees and vineyards. For centuries the Crimea has served Moscow as hothouse and wine cellar. Figs, olives, pomegranates, cherries, apples, and pears are shipped to northern markets. Crimean wine is unexcelled. Two of the largest wine cellars are at Massandra, a few miles from Yalta; one stores 375,000 gallons and the other 2,000,000 bottles.

"The higher mountain slopes are forested with pine and birch and fir. Here, 1,600 feet above Yalta, is Dolossy—Soviet tuberculosis sanatorium. Between 300 and 500 patients are in residence summer and winter.

"An excellent motor road connects Yalta with neighboring resorts along the coast. To the east are Artek, where there is a large camp for Young Pioneers (the Boy Scouts of Russia), and Sudak, famous Genoese citadel of the Thirteenth century.

Endless Warfare.

"Still farther east are the ancient cities of Kerch and Theodosia, stern fortresses of Greece and Rome. Since the dawn of history a succession of conquering peoples have occupied the little peninsula no larger than Vermont. Wealth of natural resources, safe harbors, and a strategic position on the great trade route between Europe and the Orient have doomed Crimea to endless warfare.

"Scythian hordes conquered the ancient Cimmerians. Greek colonists dotted the shores with their cities, and Mithridates made Kerch the capital of his Bosporan kingdom until Julius Caesar declared it a Roman province. Following destructive raids by Huns and Goths, Venice and Genoa fought for possession of the important harbor cities, and finally came the Tatars to stay.

"Seventy-five years after Russia won the Crimea from Turkey she was forced to defend it against the allied forces of England, France, and Turkey in one of the most futile wars in history—the Crimean war (1853 to 1856). Sevastopol remembers other bloody battles of more recent years. In the revolution of 1905 Sevastopol harbor was the scene of the mutiny of the Black sea fleet, and in the revolution of 1917 it witnessed bitter struggles between the reds and the whites.

Woman Angler Has Novel Alibi for Lack of Luck

Yellowstone Park, Wyo.—Here's a novel alibi for fisherman's lack of luck. A woman angler, returning from an afternoon on Yellowstone lake, complained about her luck to Jack Cronie, superintendent at the boat dock.

"What was the matter, didn't they bite?" inquired Cronie.

"Were they too small?"

"No, but they were alive," answered the luckless feminine angler.

The veteran guide explained that of course they'd be alive.

"But I didn't have any place to keep live fish, so I had to throw them back," was the final plaint.

Finds $1,015 Nugget

Grants Pass, Ore.—Robert Burns, Oklahoma oil driller who turned Oregon miner, found in his sluice box what was said to be the largest gold nugget ever found in this state. It weighed 34 ounces and was worth $1,015.

72 Air Fields in Idaho

Boise, Idaho.—With the completion of 32 fields now being constructed by federal workers, Idaho will have 72 airport landing fields, A. C. Blomgren, director of aeronautics, reported.

County Historical Society to Meet Sept. 15 At Cragsmoor Village

Frederick S. Dellenbaugh Will Read Paper on the Hardenbergh Family—Notables to Attend—Members May Bring Guests.

The Ulster County Historical Society will hold its fall pilgrimage on Saturday, September 15, when the members will go to Cragsmoor, picturesque Shawangunk mountain village. Members of the Huguenot Memorial Society of New Paltz and the Woodstock Historical Society will join the Ulster County society on the pilgrimage. Each member of the society may bring two guests.

Each group will provide linen for its own members and baskets will be opened at 1 o'clock daylight saving time. Arrangements have been made for lunch at Cragsmoor Inn for those who do not desire to partake of the basket lunches. However, reservations for lunch at the Inn must be made by Friday and may be made by telephoning the Inn.

After lunch Frederick S. Dellenbaugh, famous explorer and writer, will read a paper on the Hardenbergh family. The meeting will be held in the Barnstormers Theatre, or in case of rain in the Cragsmoor Inn pavilion.

For the information of those who are not familiar with the location of Cragsmoor or the best way of reaching this pretty mountain retreat, it may be reached either from Ellenville or from Walker Valley on the east. At Ellenville follow Canal street across the O. & W. Railroad tracks toward the mountain and then follow the Gully road. This road will be well posted with signs furnished by the society and erected through the courtesy of the town superintendent of highways. Traffic on the Ellenville-Cragsmoor road will be directed by State Troopers under the direction of Sergeant John H. Lockhart of Highland. The route by way of Ellenville is the better way to reach Cragsmoor, since the road from Walker Valley is under construction and not in good condition.

New members of the Ulster County Historical Society include Mrs. C. V. Van Anda of New York city, who has a summer home at Napanoch, and whose husband is managing editor of the New York Times; Joseph Keppler, the famous Indian painter and authority upon matters pertaining to the American Indians, who for many years has had a home in the Woodland Valley; John P. Rogers, vice president of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, who is writing a history of the Davenport family; Mrs. Lydia Cantine French of New York city, Mrs. Peter Elmendorf and Mrs. Claude Palen of Hurley, Mrs. Margaret Van Gaasbeek Weiner of High Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Welden of Stone Ridge, Miss Olive Mary Brown of Napanoch and Fred J. Johnston of this city.

DUFFY HANDLING NRA COMPLAINTS IN THIS AREA.

Nathan Straus, Jr., state NRA director, announces that since the designation of John J. Duffy, resident field adjuster, to handle NRA complaints in the counties of Putnam, Columbia, Greene, Delaware, Ulster, Orange and Sullivan, both employes and employers have availed themselves of the use of this new office.

Mr. Duffy is located at 317 Wall street. His duties are to adjust labor complaints and trade practice complaints. Any employe who feels that he is not being paid the right wages under the industry in which he is employed, is at liberty to communicate by letter or telephone with Mr. Duffy. No employe need fear that he will lose his job, or that his name will be divulged, as all complaints are strictly confidential. At the same time, it is the duty of any citizen who has knowledge of violations of the NRA, to report these violations to Mr. Duffy's office.

Europe is a little smaller in area than the United States and Alaska, but it has more than four times as many people.

Japanese Ex-Official Indicted and Jailed

Tokyo, Sept. 13 (AP)—Chuzo Mitsuchi, who was minister of railways in the Saito cabinet, was indicted and jailed today as prosecutors pushed their investigation of the finance ministry scandal of the Saito government.

Mitsuchi was charged with having given perjured testimony when he was examined in connection with alleged illegal transactions in which Hideo Kuroda, former under secretary in the finance ministry, was involved.

Because of Mitsuchi's exalted rank in Japanese affairs it was necessary for Tadashi Ohara, justice minister, to obtain the emperor's sanction to the former minister's arrest.

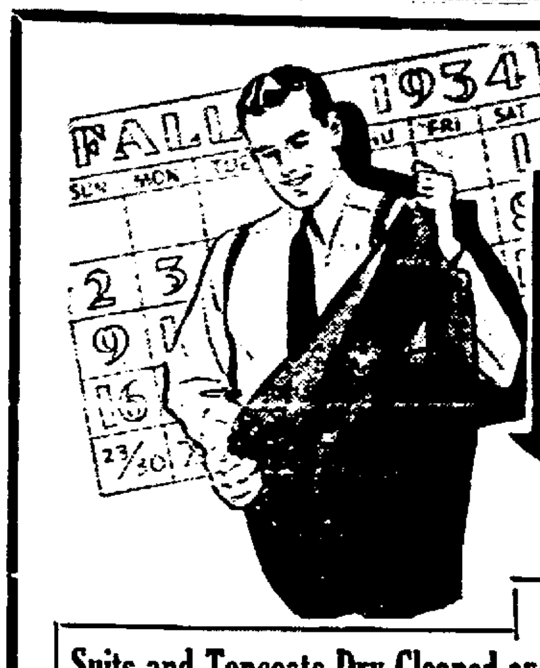

He is the second member of the Saito cabinet to be arrested in the Kuroda scandal, Kumakichi Nakajima, former minister of commerce, having preceded him to jail.
